SEES VICTORY FOR COOLIDGE PARTY IN VOTE

Lawrence Believes Republicans Will Control Both Houses in Election

WEST TO BE REPUBLICAN
Several Close Contests Indicated for Fights for Senate Seats

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—While the west is supposed to be a hot-bed of insurgency, the number of victories which can be counted as "sure" for the regular Republicans would seem to bear out that impression. The Republicans are in most cases united behind their party nominees. Local issues and personalities are prime factors and will have an important bearing on the result.

The Democrats can derive encouragement from the fact that they will make more gains in the west than the east. As stated in previous dispatches there is no doubt in the writer's mind that the Republican party will retain control of both the senate and the house but there is a doubt as to how much of a majority will be retained as it is usual for the party in power to lose seats in an off-year election.

WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI
Taking up the states west of the Mississippi individually the following results may be looked for:

Missouri—The election is close in the race for United States senator with the final outcome depending on the St. Louis vote which is normally heavy. Harry Hawes, Democrat, is strong in St. Louis and the writer expects him to defeat Senator Williams, Republican. There is also a possibility of slight gains in the various districts for the Democrats.

Iowa—Senator Brookhart, who is a candidate for the long term beginning March 4 next, is sure to win, Colonel Stewart, Republican, is unopposed for the short term beginning in December of this year, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Cummings. A large vote is expected to turn to page 4 col. 6

GENNA GANGSTER IN ITALIAN PRISON

One of Five Brothers Who Left U. S. Pleads for Release, Paper Says

Chicago—(AP)—Chicago's liquor gangsters learned Tuesday that Vincenzo Genna, who fled to his native Sicily after the third of his five wealthy brothers fled in reprisal warfare, and of whom little or nothing has been heard since, is fighting to cut short a prison sentence he is serving in Italy for a jewel robbery.

Genna is appealing his sentence of several years hard labor for the theft of the jewels of the famous Madonna di Trapani in which he denies complicity, said a cable to the Chicago Tribune from Palermo, Italy.

The newspaper's correspondent said Genna was arrested at Rome in January at the instance of the prefect of police at Palermo who is credited with wiping out the Mafia gangs. It was charged he planned the theft of the holy jewels shortly after he returned to Sicily in 1925, lavishly spending money.

WILL NOT ISSUE WARRANT ASKED AGAINST EVJUE

Madison—(AP)—In a statement issued Tuesday, Harry W. Adams, campaign manager for Charles D. Rosa, Independent senatorial candidate, said he was "still of the opinion that the corrupt practices act does apply to the facts that exist in the Evjue case."

Judge O. A. Stolen late Monday announced that he would not issue a warrant for William T. Evjue, editor of the Capital Times on Mr. Adams' charge that the corrupt practices act had been violated in one of the editors' editorials. Earlier in the day public announcement had been made in superior court that the warrant would be issued. District Attorney Philip La Follette then withdrew from the case and Judge Stolen appointed Ralph W. Jackson as acting assistant district attorney.

Upon his advice that the editorial did not attack any candidate, Judge Stolen announced later that the warrant would not be issued.

DEMAND DEATH FOR ENEMIES OF MUSSOLINI

Friends of Duce Urge Extreme Penalty for All Plotters in Italy

Rome—(AP)—"Nothing short of death to all enemies of Benito Mussolini will satisfy us," is the official edict of the Fascist party, enunciated by its secretary general, Signor Turati, A demand is to be made of the council of the Fascist party Friday for putting to death not only future assassins of the premier but the three men, Zaniboni, Capello and Lucetti, now under arrest in connection with past plots to assassinate "Il Duce."

Signor Turati thundered the Fascist party's demand for the death of Mussolini's enemies to a crowd estimated at 50,000 Monday night.

TO HUNT TRAITORS

Signor Turati discarded the possibility of the attacks upon the premier having been isolated acts of individuals. He said that the time had come when traitors must be sought even in the ranks of Fascism.

HEAVIER VOTE IS RECORDED AT NOON

148 More Ballots Are Reported Than at the Primary Last September

Indications at noon Tuesday were that a considerably heavier vote would be cast by the time the polls close at 8 o'clock Tuesday night than was recorded at the primary election Sept. 7.

An examination of the records of the election clerks in the 12 precincts at noon showed that 1,522 persons had exercised their ballot privileges. This was an increase of 148 over the number who had voted by noon at the primary. 1,374 ballots having been recorded at the corresponding time last September.

Voters in four of the six wards turned out in larger numbers than they did at the primary, the vote in the Second and Fourth wards alone being lighter this time. The decrease in the Second ward, however, was only one vote.

Especially surprising was the decrease of votes in the Fourth ward, 107 more persons having voted there by noon at the primary. The primary vote was unusually heavy for that ward, of course, but it was expected that practically as many persons would go to the polls this time.

The largest increase was noted in the Third ward which reported 88 more votes at noon Tuesday than at the primary. The votes at the primary elections at noon were 247 and 335, respectively.

The Fifth ward had almost as large an increase, 82 more persons voting in both precincts by noon than at the primary. The Tuesday vote in this ward was 308.

Following is a record of the votes cast at noon Tuesday and at noon in the primary election last September:

GREAT REDUCTION OF LIQUOR SINCE 1918--VOLSTEAD

St. Paul—(AP)—Andrew J. Volstead, author of the federal prohibition enforcement law, declared Monday night that at the most, 10 per cent as much liquor is in existence today as the amount before prohibition. His belief, however, is that statistics, showing that possibly 3 per cent of the total before 1918 is in existence, is a closer estimate, if not also "too high."

In an address at a church outlining his faith in the eighteenth amendment, Volstead, who is now engaged with the northwest enforcement office in an advisory capacity, declared that prohibition is bringing longer life to the average citizen.

TRY TO TRACE CLOTHING IN AIMEE TRIAL

State Will Attempt to Prove Articles in Trunk Owned by Evangelist

Los Angeles—(AP)—District attorney's investigators Monday were to start a final search in the city's exclusive shopping district for evidence with which they seek to prove that Aimee Semple McPherson was the woman who spent ten days in a Carmel cottage with Kenneth G. Ormiston.

The official tour of the shops, which is an attempt to identify the Angelus temple evangelist as the purchaser of an array of costly articles of wearing apparel found in a trunk recently wearing apparel found in a trunk recently was seized in New York City as the property of Ormiston. This state considers its last task in weaving a web of evidence to explain its version of Mrs. McPherson's disappearance.

GOWNS IN TRUNK

The trunk, filled with expensive gowns, lingerie and furbelows, is declared by District Attorney Asa Keys to furnish irrefutable proof of his charges that the Angelus temple pastor had been in hiding with her former radio operator at Carmel during a part of the time she was mysteriously missing. The trunk was found to contain 67 articles of women's apparel. Among the discoveries announced by Keys were eight long strands of Auburn hair and a mother-of-pearl pendant, which the prosecution says was purchased by Mrs. McPherson during her tour of Palestine last spring.

ROOSEVELT COUSIN IS KILLED IN FOX HUNT

Brooklyn, N. Y.—(AP)—Mrs. Fairman R. Dick, the former Gladys Roosevelt, a cousin of the late president, was killed Monday when she was thrown from her horse during a fox hunt.

The accident occurred shortly before 11 o'clock near the country estate of George F. Brewster. Mrs. Dick's mount caught its knee under a rail in a jump and landed on top of her. The horse is a popular animal affair regularly staged by the meadow Brook hunt club of Long Island.

A special train was sent from Portage to get the passengers and crew of the wrecked limited.

Conductor C. H. Curtis, Portage, said the train was going about 40 miles an hour when it hit the box car door.

TRUCKDRIVER STOPS TEAM BUT IS KILLED

Racine—(AP)—Ora Schenk, 40, driver of a coal team realizing that the runaway animals tearing through Main street, traffic at 11 o'clock Tuesday, were in momentary danger of crashing into motor cars and injuring or killing the occupants, managed to turn them from the street in to the St. Paul railroad yards. The act cost his life an instant later. The wheels of the wagon caught in the rails with the result that he was thrown from his seat under the steel foot of the engine and he was trampled to death.

Election Extra!

An "election extra" containing reports of county, state and national elections will be issued at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning by the Appleton Post-Crescent. This edition will carry tabular reports of local elections and comprehensive accounts of the voting all over the United States.

FIVE COACHES AND ENGINE LEAVE TRACK

Fireman, Severely Injured, Is Taken to Hospital at Columbus

PASSENGERS UNINJURED
Heavy Door from Freight Train on Track Cause of Derailment

Columbus—(AP)—A steel door of a freight car which had fallen on the tracks was believed to have been responsible for the derailment of the Pioneer limited, fast train of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad late Monday night with injury to one person.

Frank Nitz, 35, Portage, fireman of the train, was in the local hospital here Tuesday, with severe injuries. Edward Donahue, engineer, escaped with only bruises. Not one passenger was injured.

The accident occurred at 11:16 Monday night as the train was going through the city without stopping. An east bound freight train had passed a few minutes before and the heavy door of one of the freight cars had fallen onto the adjoining tracks. The wreck held up traffic on both tracks of the line.

Freight Train Derailed
Three miles east of Mauston on the same line, 26 freight cars were derailed at 4 o'clock Monday morning without injury to any of the train crew.

Thomas Toomey, 64, night watchman and fireman of the Columbus Canning factory, had just finished tending the boilers when he heard the whistle of the night train. He stepped out on the shipping platform to watch the fast train go past. This time the train did not go past. He stepped out just in time to see the big locomotive and the freight train derailed over and over and roll down the embankment and tear part of the platform away under its feet.

FIREMAN SHOUTS WARNING

Nitz was the first to see the car door on the track and jumped as he shouted a warning to Engineer Donahue. The latter applied brakes and stuck to his post. The engine leaped as it hit the door and came down with the front trucks on the ties and its rear trucks on the rails. Ripping up ties, it bounded along upright as it crossed the railroad bridge over the Crawford river. By some chance the engine did not entirely leave the tracks and tumbled over until it had reached a point several hundred feet beyond the bridge.

When the engine rolled against the shipping platform of the cannery factory it dragged the baggage coach sideways. The rear end of the baggage car kicked the other way dragging the mail car, and the kick of the mail car's rear end, swinging around, broke the coupling between it and the day coach.

COACH GOES THROUGH WALL
The day coach shot through the factory wall. Four sleepers behind the day coach, which went through the wall were not injured. All were able to extricate themselves.

Donahue was badly bruised and shaken but otherwise unhurt. At his suggestion, men went back along the track and found Nitz, Dr. H. M. Caldwell, Columbus, attended the injured fireman who then was taken to St. Mary's hospital, Columbus.

A special train was sent from Portage to get the passengers and crew of the wrecked limited.

RIPON STUDENTS REGRET BET ON BADGER ELEVEN

Ripon—(AP)—Clad in their bathing suits which fulfilled a harmonious with the wintry touch given to the ground by six inches of snow, Ellsworth Graham, Glendon, and Gaston Garnier, Octon Falls, paid Monday for their misplaced confidence in Wisconsin's ability to defeat Minnesota.

While faculty and students turned out en masse, the two Ripon college students paid their debt to Joe Meyer, Minneapolis, and walked in the abbreviated costume from the college campus to the downtown district. Signs on their backs "we bet on Wisconsin" told the story of their mistake.

FIND 6 GUILTY IN WISCONSIN KLAN HEARING

Marinette Jury Out 75 Hours; Three Are Acquitted in Riot Case

Marinette—(AP)—After 75 hours of deliberation which breaks all county records on length of retirement, a jury Monday night found six men guilty of inciting a riot and with destruction of property in connection with a Ku Klux Klan meeting, on the night of June 25, which culminated in disorders and burning of the tent. Nine men were held for trial, but the jury found three to be guilty.

Those convicted are Clyde Barrett, Leo Bellare, Harold Bennett, Eugene and Leo Benson and Neddie Villenave. Ray Reese, James Murtha and Mike Shultry were found not guilty. At one time the weary jurors decided any further effort to agree would be futile, but after the pleading of Judge W. B. Quinlan that the jurors come to some decision and avoid the expense of another trial the jury again went into deliberation.

The men will be sentenced Wednesday morning in Judge Quinlan's court.

CHARGE PREJUDICE IN PASTOR'S TRIAL

Witness Says Citizens Would Pack Jury Against Dr. Norris

Fort Worth, Texas—(AP)—A member of Dr. J. Frank Norris' church who contributed $10 to the pastor's defense testified Tuesday in the venue change hearing, in which Norris is seeking to have his trial transferred to another county, that he had "heard men say they would like to get on the jury and break his damn neck."

This witness was J. E. Davis, a railway mail clerk. Dr. Norris is on trial for the slaying of Dexter E. Chippis, wealthy lumberman.

When Davis said he had heard some say they'd like to get on the jury and make a "trade" with the state, Judge George Hoesey presiding took him in hand.

"You mean to say you heard a man say they would accept a bribe from the prosecution and did not report it," the judge asked.

"Well, I didn't pay much attention to it. I just passed it up," Davis said.

MEXICAN IS KILLED IN MILWAUKEE DUEL

Milwaukee—(AP)—One Mexican is dead and another is in a serious condition Tuesday as the sequel to a pistol duel staged in a rooming house over the affections of a 21-year-old mother.

Joe Fernandez, proprietor of the place, died a few hours after the duel, while David Alvarez, a roomer in a local hospital. Standing ten paces apart, the two men exchanged several shots, both receiving wounds. The woman stood in an adjoining room during the fracas clutching a year old baby.

QUEEN SITS IN FARMER'S LAP ON ROYAL SPECIAL

Bismarck, N. D.—(AP)—Lynn Sperry, farmer, has the distinction of being the only American to have Queen Marie sit in his lap. It was all due to a lurch of the royal train on a curve.

"Certainly an informal introduction," remarked the new sister of the Sioux.

Weyauwega Marshal and Storekeeper Fire at Fleeing Criminal

Springing into his automobile amid a fusillade of shots, a thief caught in the act of robbing the Lautenbach general store at Weyauwega about 2 o'clock Monday morning, made his escape, apparently uninjured.

The car, an Oakland touring bearing a Michigan license, was found abandoned at 6 o'clock that morning two miles east of Antigo by Waupaca police. Investigation disclosed that the car had been stolen at Escanaba, Mich., about a week ago.

The alleged thief had not been found Tuesday morning, although police in this part of the state are keeping a watchful eye for him.

The village marshal of Weyauwega, who had been on duty at the Lautenbach store, saw the car enter the village limits shortly before 2 o'clock Monday morning. After driving up and down several streets, the motorist headed the car into an alley and brought it to a stop at the rear of the Lautenbach store.

After making sure of the stranger's intentions, the marshal called the two men, armed, hid themselves at the rear of the store to await the appearance of the man they knew to be inside.

When the stranger reappeared from the rear door, his arms filled with articles of clothing, he was met by the command to stop and throw up his hands. Startled for a minute, he dropped the articles he was attempting to carry away, but suddenly he dashed for his car, the motor of which had been left running, threw it into gear and drove madly away as the two men left behind sent shot after shot at him.

Entrance to the store was "rained" through a cellar window.

14 PRIVATE BANKS IN MICHIGAN ARE CLOSED

Bay City, Mich.—(AP)—Fourteen small private banks known as the Ealy and Company banks in Clifford, Tuscola, Lapeer Bay, Ogemaw and Isococo have been closed with in the last few days pending a dissolution of partnerships and reorganization into state banks. No statement of assets, deposits or liabilities has been made.

Frozen loans damage to bean and beet crops, a steady withdrawal of deposits in some of the banks and the necessity of conserving assets are given as the reason for closing them. The banks are located in Tuscola Co.

BODY OF HOUDINI IS CARRIED TO NEW YORK

New York—(AP)—The body of Harry Houdini, magician who died Sunday in Detroit, was brought here by train Tuesday for burial Thursday.

Funeral services by the Elks will be followed by Jewish rites at the temple Mt. Zion. Representatives of the Jewish Theatrical guild and the National vaudeville artists association will participate. The American society of Magicians, of which Houdini was president Tuesday announced plans were under way for a public memorial service.

THIEVES ROB CLOTHING STORE IN BADGER CITY

Crandon—(AP)—Thieves broke into the Walter Knott clothing store here some time between midnight and morning and took every suit and overcoat in the establishment. The loss was estimated this morning at between $3,000 and $4,000. The robbers bored a hole above the lock on the door and reached through the hole with their hands and entered by opening the night lock from the inside.

"PIG WOMAN" GUARDED IN HALL MURDER

State Watches Chief Witness in Trial for Double Slaying

Somerville, N. J.—(AP)—The state's chief witness for the slaying of the Hall-Milla murder case, which opens Wednesday, was under heavy guard Tuesday. Another witness had disappeared, but Inspector John Underwood, chief assistant to Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, in investigating the case, explains that she "disappeared" in her home and "aged" and "guard."

Mrs. Gibson, known as the "pig woman," has said that on the night of the murder four years ago she was riding her milk cow, a pig and a few chickens, when she saw the slayer, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the clergyman's widow, Henry and Willie Stevens, brothers of Mrs. Hall, who go to trial with her Wednesday for the murder of Mrs. Mills, and Henry Carpenter, a cousin of Mrs. Hall.

MINISTER VANISHES
The witness who vanished is the Rev. Paul Hamborsky who is said to be in Florida. He informed the prosecution that the Rev. Mr. Hall told him a few days before the murder "Henry Stevens has threatened my life."

Dr. Otto Schultz of the New York district attorney's office, who performed autopsies on the bodies recently, has found there is no foundation for rumors that Mrs. Mills' tongue was cut out.

SHIP LEAVES FOR DRY DOCK AFTER COLLISION

FOUR HUNDRED PUT TABOO ON BOBBED HAIR IN NEW YORK

New York—(AP)—Bobbied hair apparently has lost caste in the four hundred. Long wavy locks on the heads of debutantes and matrons in the diamond horse shoe were noted at the opening of the Metropolitan Opera season Monday night.

White satin, velvet and georgette, accented by pearls and diamonds, formed the overtone of the color symphony in dress. A profusion of feathers, in brilliant colors waved in the fans of the diamond horseshoe as well as from the dresses and cloaks. Brocade cloaks of black, gold and red and blue velvet, embroidered in gold, was worn by many.

Metal cloth and moire were much in evidence in these costumes of the debutantes. Silver slippers, were most popular but red and blue velvet, embroidered in gold, was worn by many.

MOTOR POLICEMAN DIES OF INJURIES RECEIVED ON DUTY

Young Man Injured Months Ago While Chasing Speeding Autoist

Death closed a colorful career early Tuesday morning when it claimed Alfred Dunn, 30 city motorcycle patrolman. Pneumonia, it was reported, was the direct cause of death. Mr. Dunn was on sick leave as the result of an accident.

Last June 19, police records show while on duty Mr. Dunn, who was pursuing a speeder, had a bad fall from his motorcycle when he hit a stretch of loose gravel at S. Oneida-st and Calumet-ave. He was treated by a physician for injuries to his left arm and knee. Mr. Dunn was not considered seriously hurt and the matter was virtually forgotten until last week when the old wounds became painful. Poisoning, it was revealed, had set in and the officer was taken to a hospital where an operation was performed.

RALLIES AFTER OPERATION

Saturday Mr. Dunn rallied and his recovery was expected, but his lungs became affected. Early Monday his condition was reported as fair and no trepidation was felt regarding the patient's condition. However, according to reports, Mr. Dunn became worse during the day and his decline was gradual until he died at 3:10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The motorcycle policeman had had a wide experience as a law enforcement agent before becoming a patrolman. He was a member of the Appleton force on May 27, 1925, his official appointment reveals. During 1925 and for one month of this year Mr. Dunn was a county motorcycle patrolman, prior to that he had filled the unexpired term of his father who was killed in an automobile accident while serving as village marshal at Hortonville.

GUIDE IN WEST

Leaving his home while still a very young man Mr. Dunn spent several years as forest ranger and guide in various sections of the Rocky Mountain territory.

He was a former service man and funeral arrangements will include Legion honors.

"Officer Dunn was a competent policeman one who did not fear danger, and a man to whom the routine work of law enforcement was a part of his daily life and one who was familiar with every phase of his duties so that a minimum of instruction was required to produce a maximum of service when Mr. Dunn was assigned to a case." Police Chief George T. Prim declared Tuesday morning.

The funeral will be held at Appleton and Village of Hortonville, where Mr. Dunn's widowed mother still lives. Mr. Dunn originally became a member of the American Legion in Hortonville, but is believed to have transferred his membership to the Hortonville unit.

The funeral probably will be held Thursday afternoon.

Brief services will be held at 1:45 o'clock from the Schommer Funeral Home, Appleton, with later services conducted by the Rev. Henry S. Gattley at the Baptist church, Hortonville. Burial will be in Union cemetery, also at Hortonville. Mr. Dunn will be accorded full military honors.

Surviving the dear officer are: his widow, Jeanne, Appleton; two brothers, Frank, Milwaukee, and William, Intervale; his mother, Mrs. Abbie Dunn, Hortonville; and five sisters, Mrs. William D. Buckman, Los Angeles; Mrs. Virgil Poole and Mrs. Elsie Nehrenburg, Hortonville; and Mrs. J. R. Deschancey, Little Chute.

The Rev. Mr. Gattley performed the marriage ceremony between Mr. Dunn and his wife at Missoula, Mont., in 1922.

100 HEAR ZIMMERMAN SPEAK HERE SATURDAY

Approximately 100 persons were at the parking grounds across from Con-way hotel Saturday afternoon to hear Fred R. Zimmerman, Republican nominee for governor, give a short address. Mr. Zimmerman arrived in Appleton about 5 o'clock with a motorcade of about 30 cars and 100 boosters. Chief George T. Prim introduced the speaker.

Several carloads of Appleton boosters joined the parade here and continued to Green Bay to take part in the banquet and celebration that took place there in the evening. More than 500 persons attended this meeting. The booster parade started at Milwaukee Saturday morning and made stops at all the larger cities along the route.

Herman Loggell, a former Appleton boy, sang several solos after Mr. Zimmerman's speech in Appleton. Mr. Loggell, whose father was in business in the west end for several years is a noted singer, having traveled with the Milwaukee Liederkreis in Europe as a soloist last summer.

Collar-Attached Shirts Are "Best Sellers" Here

Collar attached shirts have been, are and will be the best sellers in Appleton according to a survey made of the sales and plans of 15 stores, including men's sections in department stores, men's clothing stores, and haberdashers. Fourteen of the merchants voted for the collar attached shirt as selling better than neckband styles during the past summer and fall, and 13 of these predicted its continued popularity next summer. The semi-soft collar was unanimously voted better for next summer than the stiff style.

LAWRENCE ALUMNI MAGAZINE OFF PRESS

The first issue of "Lawrence Alumnus," quarterly publication of Lawrence college alumni association, was distributed Saturday. Anders P. Anderson, alumni secretary, is editor of the magazine, and associate editors are Mrs. Wilson S. Naylor, Miss Muriel Kelly, Miss Olga Achtenhagen, Everett V. Hall, and Miss Rebecca Beney of Appleton, and Dan Hardt of Neenah.

Among the articles in the October number of the Alumnus are: How to Spoil Boys, by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the college, an address on college athletics delivered before the Lions club on Sept. 13, 1928; Undergraduate Interests in Collegiate Education, by Dr. A. A. Taylor, professor of ancient and European history, an address delivered in the first regular convocation of the faculty and students of the college at Lawrence Memorial chapel, Sept. 22, 1928, on student reports of investigations made in some of the American colleges; and Athletics, including a football review and a brief sketch of basketball coaches and prospects.

match, did the majority of the dealers report no decrease or increase in sales. Four merchants had increases from 5 to 20 per cent, but ten said their sales of these models were about the same as in the year before.

The white collar, attached and the fancy collar attached shirts were listed by ten and 13 merchants respectively as being good sellers. In both styles the sales ranged from 10 to 75 per cent over the previous year in the various stores, and in the fancy shirts not one dealer reported a decrease in sales although two said the business in them was about the same for both years.

White and fancy neckband shirts had about the same record, with nine stores stating there was less business in them, two giving increases, and four, the same as in 1927.

The passe style is apparently the stiff collar. No merchant of the 35 surveyed, did a larger business in this style in 1926 than in 1925 and 11 sold from 5 to 75 per cent less. The semi-soft collar also showed a decrease, for seven stores had decreases of 10 to 50 per cent, three showed increases of 30 to 55 per cent, and five had about the same number of sales.

prepared faster now than plain toast

OATS used to take a while to cook. Now they're ready in 3 to 5 minutes.

Thus starting days with less nourishing foods is a folly. Quick Quaker supplies the excellently "balanced" ration of protein, carbohydrates, vitamins and the "bulk" (to make laxatives less often needed) that active people need to carry on the day.

Get Quick Quaker. Food that's delicious; food that "stands by" through the morning. Start each day that way.

Your grocer has Quick Quaker—also Quaker Oats as you have always known them.

LEGION ABANDONS
ARMISTICE SERVICESunday Observance Given Up When Ministers Object

Neenah—The annual Armistice Sunday public services which have been conducted by James P. Hawley post American Legion at Saxe Neenah the, will be dispensed with this year, and hereafter will be held on the Sunday preceding Memorial day in May. This decision was reached Tuesday morning by the Legion after the service, which was opposed by several ministers. Dr. W. A. Gaudin, of Carroll college, had been secured for the service on Sunday, Nov. 7. Dr. Gaudin promised the Legion that he would be available at any time it wished to conduct the service. James P. Hawley post will observe Armistice day on Nov. 11 with the usual 6.30 dinner at Equitable Fraternity hall, after which the post and Ladies Auxiliary will spend the evening in dancing and cards.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats the rest. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Squeeze into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes of the throat. It loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm that once so annoyed you. A dry, use will "break up" an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and influenza.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable glycerol, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "Pinex" or "Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Radio Fans Expect Better
Reception During Winter

Appleton radio fans are looking forward to a winter of excellent radio reception since all indications point to a better season than was enjoyed last year.

General conditions show a marked improvement and the magnetic blanket, sun spots and other interferences of last year are not in evidence. Statistically, the fact that the static level is much lower, will not be so much of a hindrance this year, fans expect.

Combined with favorable natural conditions this year a general trend of improvement in the manufacture of apparatus virtually guarantees better reception, it was pointed out. More sensitive sets using smaller aerials which pick up less extraneous noise are one factor. Receiving sets with a metal shield which eliminate interference pick up and the new one dial control which simplifies tuning in to an extent where it is possible to eliminate an undesirable station by turning the dial a fraction of an inch will help, enthusiasts say.

A better grade of amplifying apparatus and improvements in the construction of reproducers combine to secure excellent tone quality in the reception of music. Broadcasting stations are increasing the power of their sending stations, some employing as high as 50,000 watts. A few years ago a 1,000-watt station was considered high-powered.

Some unfavorable conditions still exist for local listeners, however, whose sets are adjacent to high tension wires although public service companies have done as much as possible to cooperate with radio fans in efforts to eliminate sectional interference. Persons living adjacent to street car lines also report some "humming" in their sets.

"The pirate of the air," the unlicensed station, which crowds in on established station wave lengths is the greatest factor of interference, radio men declare. This results in a bedlam of noises which makes it impossible to bring in any stations with any degree of clarity. Fans see a ray of hope in an injunction suit now pending by WGN against another station using the same wave length.

So far no remedy has been found whereby a set can select from a group of stations broadcasting on the same wave length, especially on long distance.

The greatest improvement in radio that fans agree has come about this year is the sending of better music. The last few weeks and his friends believe he will press Senator Shortridge closely, but not closely enough to endanger the latter's election. There may be a gain of one seat for the Republicans in the second district which is electing a successor to the late Representative Baker.

PREDICTS VICTORY FOR REPUBLICANS

Wisconsin—John J. Blaine, Republican of the La Follette faction will be elected senator from Wisconsin. The opposition is divided between three candidates but Mr. Blaine has the advantage of being on the regular Republican ticket, having defeated Senator Lenroot in the Republican primaries.

North Dakota—Senator Gerald F. Nye, Republican, is assured of success in a race which has not been particularly difficult from those of preceding years with the usual lineup of farmer groups.

South Dakota—Peter Norbeck, present Republican incumbent, is undoubtedly going to win over C. J. Gundersen, Democratic nominee for the United States Senate. The latter's party has concentrated its efforts on the election of W. J. Eulow, governor, in a four-cornered battle in which many Republicans have been saying they will desert their party. Some danger is foreseen that Representative Williamson, Republican, may lose his seat in the melee. Otherwise the delegation will remain Republican.

Utah—The reelection of Senator Smoot, Republican is assured against Ashby Snow, Democrat, and no change in the Republican delegation to the house is anticipated.

Idaho—There is no indication of any change in the house delegation and it is certain Senator Gooding, Republican, will be reelected.

DEMOCRAT IN ARIZONA
Arizona—Representative Car Hayden, Democrat, is practically assured of victory against Senator Cameron, Republican, and there will be a gain of a Democratic seat in the house. Senator Cameron's defeat will hardly be regarded as repudiation of the Coolidge administration but as a result of local conditions, and the excellent campaign made by Mr. Hayden.

California—John B. Elliott, Democrat, running on a dry platform, has made important gains during the last few weeks and his friends believe he will press Senator Shortridge closely, but not closely enough to endanger the latter's election. There may be a gain of one seat for the Republicans in the second district which is electing a successor to the late Representative Baker.

Thus it will be seen that while here and there some Democratic gains will be made the basic strength of the Republican party has hardly been affected so far as results go. Majorities will be cut down as is the case in off-years but the Republicans will discount that as it has been the experience of every incumbent party in the years when there is no presidential election.

OREGON FIGHT INTERESTING
Oregon—This has been one of the most interesting campaigns in the western states. Senator Stanford who was defeated in the primaries, entered the race as an Independent Republican. Frederick Stelwer, successful Republican nominee in the primaries, is being closely pressed by Bert Haney, change in the house delegation and it is certain Senator Gooding, Republican, will be reelected.

DEMOCRAT IN ARIZONA
Arizona—Representative Car Hayden, Democrat, is practically assured of victory against Senator Cameron, Republican, and there will be a gain of a Democratic seat in the house. Senator Cameron's defeat will hardly be regarded as repudiation of the Coolidge administration but as a result of local conditions, and the excellent campaign made by Mr. Hayden.

Queries Pour Into Office For Mysterious Scientist

The announcement that Marajah, the man of mystery now appearing at Fischer's Appleton theatre, would answer questions through the columns of The Post-Crescent had hardly reached the streets before dozens of persons seized paper and pen and snatched queries at the scientist. The morning mail, just a few hours after the first announcement, had a sizable number of queries and during the day an enormous number of letters poured into the office.

Readers should not forget to sign their queries with their names and addresses and enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope. Marajah will answer every question put to him, but obviously it will be impossible to answer them all in the paper. Those that cannot be answered in the paper will be answered by letter.

Marajah will be at the theatre the remainder of this week and on Sunday. Questions he has answered up to Saturday night, therefore it behooves readers to send in their queries as soon as possible.

All types of questions will be answered. If there is anything you want to know, write to Marajah, in care of The Post-Crescent.

Here are answers to the first ten questions he received:

No. 1. H. K. D.—Your letter received and suggest to you by all means do as you plan and go to school next year. Marriage is not prevalent and it is not good for you.

No. 2. Mrs. George H.—Relative to your letter, your home will be sold in the month of February next year, and as you suggest, it is very good for you to make the change in 1927.

No. 3. Mr. George H.—Travel is shown for you in 1927 with your family, also your son, who I see is about to finish school. You and your son are due to travel in Florida, Texas, California. I wish you would come to the Appleton theatre. I have some other questions I would like to answer for you.

No. 4. C. W. Hotel Beaumont, Green Bay, Wis.—You will better your position and you will better yourself personally, also financially, by making change.

No. 5. Mrs. Minnie S. Commercialist.—The trouble with you, lady, is that you listen to too much gossip. We have a lot of people today so busy bothering with other people's business, that they never have much business of their own. You have a good husband and he is not keeping company with other women. Relative to other things you are asking regarding him, you come and see me personally at the theatre.

No. 6. Mrs. W. P. East Commercial St.—Your mother does not come to me very happy, and your son will pass through school without any accident. Happiness is shown for you in 1923 through money being inherited. The father's address I will give to you later.

No. 7. Mrs. Rose De G. Fremont St.—The ten dollars that you placed on the bed was taken by a party. Now at this writing I do not give names, for this is a criminal act and therefore you will have to write me again, giving your name and date of birth, and I will answer.

No. 8. Mrs. Lillian K. East Water St. Neenah, Wis.—Your future holds a great deal of happiness for you in '27. Your husband seems to be driving the car when he was killed. Another marriage is shown for you, but you will never feel the same as you did during your first marriage, because you had a wonderful husband.

National Doctors Specialist

Dr. Baird, Associate (Licentiate of Wisconsin) Brings the Knowledge of Our Organization and Our Experience in the Successful Treatment of

COMPLICATED CHRONIC CONDITIONS

Expert Service Free of Charge—

The national doctors, experienced Specialists, treat without SURGICAL OPERATIONS or HYPODERMIC INJECTIONS diseases of the Blood, Skin and the Internal Organs, Rheumatism, Scatula, Lung Troubles, Old Ulcers, Tape-worm, Eczema, Asthma, Chronic Constipation, Epilepsy, High Blood Pressure, Bed-wetting and other morbid affections of the body.

Years of experience and the complete records of great numbers of cases successfully treated prove that the methods of the National Doctors are very dependable.

Many people keep on suffering from ailments that might be greatly improved because they cannot afford to go to high-priced Specialists away from home, and few communities have sufficient numbers of such cases to support a specialist.

The National Doctors have solved this problem by having their trained Specialists travel from town to town to meet the sick. They instruct patients, recommend a treatment, and teach ailing men and women how to take care of themselves at home.

To those having ailments of long standing, whatever the trouble may be, and notwithstanding the poor results of former treatments, come and talk it over.

Examination and advice FREE.

Ladies are requested to come escorted.

HEAVY VOTE CAST OUTSIDE OF CITY

Polling Places Rushed During Early Hours, Observers Say

At noon Tuesday every indication pointed to an exceptionally heavy vote throughout the county, it was reported by persons coming to Appleton from various outlying districts. Kaukauna, Little Chute, town of Oneida, town of Maine and the village, were declared to be rushed during the early hours. County Clerk John E. Hantschel remained on duty at the courthouse most of the time during the day to answer questions and to furnish supplies called for from various polling places.

In connection with these votes it was pointed out by County Judge Fred V. Heinemann that any duly sworn inspector of a polling place can act in the capacity of a notary, as required by law, in swearing in freeholders. Two property owners' signatures are demanded in each instance where a vote is sworn in at the polls. Before 10 o'clock indications pointed to a fair increase of the number of absent votes cast in person and through the mail as compared to those received in the Primary. At that hour 139 such ballots were in possession of the county clerk ready for distribution to the precincts and

INSTALL BEAUTY SHOP IN BEATRICE STUDIO

Beatrice Studio has installed a new beauty shop to be under the direction of Miss Prudence E. Lyke, of Kenosha. Two booths have been arranged, one for facial work and the other for shampooing and curling of hair. Miss Lyke has been engaged in professional beauty work for the past seven years, and Miss Anne Beatrice Heckio has managed the studio here for several years. As the shop grows more booths will be installed, it was said.

It was expected a large number would be received through the mails before night.

Here's my smoke- platform

A JIMMY-PIPE with an ample bowl. A tobacco that is mild and mellow, yet not "mollycoddle," if you get me—and you do. You know what I mean . . . mild, yet with plenty of body to let you know you are smoking. A tobacco that smokes cool.

A tobacco that is fragrant in the package, to whet the appetite, and equally fragrant as you smoke it. A tobacco that does not bite the tongue or parch the throat. A tobacco so wonderfully satisfying that you are kept busy smoking and reloading, all day long.

There's only one tobacco in the whole wide world that I know of which meets this platform. Its name is "Prince Albert" and I claim it really is the prince of smokes. More men smoke this tobacco than any other brand, which is important and likewise true.

If you are still outside the fold of contented jimmy-pipers, buy a tidy red tin of P. A. today. No matter how satisfied you appear to be with your present brand, try Prince Albert. I promise you a smoke-experience that will be new and delightfully different.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

DEATH BLOW TO NEW YORK ROUTE

The proposed all-American ship canal from Lake Ontario to the Hudson river through New York state, has sustained another hard blow, and one that should sink it for good. A board of five army engineers, headed by General Herbert Deakyne, assistant chief of engineers, has made an unfavorable report on the project. This follows a report of army engineers made in the course of the last session of congress that was also adverse.

From the beginning the so-called all-American route has been a dream, and chiefly a political dream at that. It has never had any substantial engineering opinion to support it. The idea was conceived many years ago, but it was rather aggressively revived when the St. Lawrence seaway was received with so much national favor a few years ago. This revival was a scheme of the East to head off the St. Lawrence project, to which it showed deep-seated opposition. If we had been so unfortunate as to fall for the propaganda in favor of the all-American route and actually authorized its construction, it would have terminated in the building of an impractical and unusable sea connection. That would have suited the Atlantic seaboard interests and particularly the ports of New York and Boston, but it would have been of no value to the Great Lakes district and the Northwest.

The plan to dig a canal from Lake Ontario to the Hudson river has its chief recommendation in its name, an "all-American waterway." There was a certain patriotic appeal in the phrase that doubtless misled some persons into a sympathetic receptiveness. This implied argument falls before the fact that more than a hundred years of uninterrupted peace between Canada and the United States are an almost certain guarantee that war between the two countries will never take place. Furthermore, if it should, the St. Lawrence seaway would be of no particular military benefit to the Canadians, nor would the temporary closing of an all-sea route from the lakes be of any particular handicap to the United States. It is a commercial problem pure and simple, and since the St. Lawrence seaway is the logical, natural and in fact only practical undertaking to give the Mid-west an ocean outlet, it should be adopted and carried through. There is no objection to it that is not of a purely political or sectional nature. Its tremendous benefit to the Mid-west is mathematically demonstrable, and in a broad sense its national value. Once the so-called all-American route is definitely disposed of there can be no good reason for not proceeding with the St. Lawrence project.

A UNITED STATES OF EUROPE

From time to time there is much heard about a visionary "United States of Europe" which is some day to solve all of Europe's political, economic and social ills. We get the idea that some day all Europe will be one great family, each state living in much the same relations with the other as do our own states. One must have one's dreams. Sometimes they are so much more satisfactory than the drab reality that it is better to dream than to be awake. So far this United States of Europe is but a dream. Generations must come and go before it can be accomplished, we fear; decades must go by before the centuries of prejudice and doubt and distrust and revenge can be wiped out. They point to the United States of America as evidence of the soundness of a principle and it is true that it is an outstanding example of what can be done by a complete consolidation of smaller powers for the good of all, but it must be remembered that the beginnings of the United States of America were far different and certainly more auspicious than are conditions today for the formation of a United States of Europe. Some day it will come. There can be no doubt of that. It is an ideal for which to strive, for which to bend every effort, but the proponents of the new order must not become impatient if progress in this direction appears to drag, for there is a mountain of difficulties, and practical ones, in the way of the change.

MUSSOLINI'S CHARMED LIFE

Mussolini appears to bear a charmed life. For the sixth time an attempt was made to assassinate the Italian dictator. This time the fury of the crowd was so great the would-be slayer was killed almost in his tracks. The present attempt has no more significance than the others, nor has it any less. The majority of the Italian people are of fascist sympathies and they are for Mussolini, but there is a minority that hates and distrusts him with the same intensity that he is idolized by his followers. Potentially Mussolini is the target for hundreds of guns or daggers in the hands of anti-fascists and fanatics. Ultimately one of them must get him, despite all precautions to safeguard his life. Life is held too lightly in Italy to frighten his adversaries with punishment or reprisal. In the meantime Mussolini is making history fast. Hardly a day goes by that the re-nationalization of the country under his leadership is not marked by some stirring or sensational episode. All Europe is in a state of nervous tension over what he will do next in his foreign policies and all Italy is alive with praise or condemnation for his domestic policies. History's estimate of Mussolini no man can foretell. Italy has much to lose or gain by reason of him, and perhaps even more when he is gone.

THE REMOVAL POWER

Of far reaching importance will be the decision of the supreme court of the United States that the president has the executive power of removing from office executive officers of the government whom he, with the advice and consent of the senate, appointed.

This decision, which was handed down in the form of a majority decision by Chief Justice William H. Taft, himself an ex-president, was in the Myers postmaster case from Oregon. The decision rules that the president has the right to remove Myers, regardless of the law of 1876, which provides for the removal of postmasters of the first, second and third classes "by and with the advice and consent of the senate."

The real effect of this decision, which ranks in importance with the historic case of Marbury vs. Madison, is not only to hold the law of 1876 void, but to invalidate statutes which interfere with the exercise by the president of the exclusive power of removal. In other words the supreme court has just made a gift of tremendous power to the president. Under this sweeping decision the president will have the power to remove members of all commissions appointed by him, although it has been generally supposed that they could not be removed except for malfeasance.

It is not a popular decision, either with the supreme court or with the common citizen. It reposes a little too much authority in the president. There are not enough safeguards. The minority of the supreme court point out that it overturns the noted decision of the same tribunal in the Marbury vs. Madison case and runs contrary to a long line of court decisions and of laws passed by congress.

It is impossible to predict just what the result of this decision will be. In the hands of a wise president the situation may be safe, but if the president does not prove to be wise—what then? Where are our safeguards?

THE LITTLE THINGS
I'd rather seek the little than the much
And content with trifles such as these:
A little home that wears a gracious touch,
A little girl who climbs upon my knees,
A little knowledge—just enough to be
A gentleman in all men's company.
I'd rather spend a little time in play
Than live my life in fortune's gilded shell;
To do a lot of little deeds each day
Than have it said I did but one thing well.
In little gardens roses come to bloom
As lovely as the ones with greater room.
It takes but little thought and little care
To add the grace which glorifies the soul.
A little love a mighty load will bear
A little faith will bring us to our goal.
And better loved are they than mighty kings
Who fail in great, but do the little things.

HOME CANNERS CAN'T CAN VITAMIN

From time to time I have mentioned here that factory canned tomatoes are nearly as good as fresh tomatoes, or rather the juice is, as a substitute for orange juice in the feeding of infants, because tomatoes canned in the factory retain much of their antiscorbutic vitamin, but tomatoes canned at home are practically useless for this purpose. This brings many protests or at least leading questions from housekeepers, such as this: "No home canned tomatoes for baby? Shall I apologize or will you? Did you ever hear of home canning by the one period cold pack process, the method taught in our Michigan boys' and girls' clubs? I am under the impression these are even better for the youngest members than those bought at the store." (Mrs. H. K. W.)

I have not intimated that home canned tomatoes are not as good for the baby as they are for anybody else, but only that tomatoes canned at home do not retain the antiscorbutic vitamin as do tomatoes canned in the factory. I do not know precisely what the process of canning this Michigan correspondent mentions may be.

Another woman gives a detailed description of a process of canning in which jars are filled with tomatoes and water right to the brim, and the screw tops are then put on and turned down nearly but not quite tight, and then the tomatoes in the can are cooked for a time and finally the covers are screwed down tight. This process, the correspondent thought, amounts practically to a vacuum process and she believed it conserves the vitamin.

No. If the screw caps were applied tightly first, to seal the cans hermetically, and then the tomatoes cooked, that would amount practically to vacuum process canning, but it would probably burst the jar.

In the factory the tomatoes are placed in the tins with enough water to fill the tin to the brim, and the tin is then soldered so that it is hermetically sealed, and finally the sealed tins are cooked. The tin permits some expansion without bursting. There is a vacuum within the container. That means that no oxidation can occur, and it is oxidation that destroys the vitamin during heating or cooking.

I should think it would be possible for the home canner to use tins instead of glass jars, with a ship cover or a screw cap which could be hermetically sealed before the heating or cooking is done, and so have the advantage of the vacuum process and retain the vitamin which prevents scurvy and other troubles.

The same observations apply, of course, to any other vegetable or fruit. Besides fresh tomato juice or the juice of factory canned (not home canned) tomato, there are numerous other vegetable or fruit juices which may be used for feeding the young infant, instead of orange juice, which is good for the purpose but not always obtainable. Peach juice, pear juice, apple juice, apricot juice, cherry juice, plum or prune juice, grape juice, melon juice, berry juice, the juice from cabbage raw, onions, string beans, green peas, in fact the raw juice of any fruit or vegetable which ripens in the sun.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Life Insurance Quackery
The visiting nurse of the Life Insurance company wants me to try the viavi treatment before I have any operation. What would you advise? (Mrs. S. H.)

My husband intends to go to _____ and have an operation for ulcers in his stomach. But a life insurance agent tells me such operations are never successful and he says it would be much better _____ (Mrs. W. M. R.)

Answer.—In the last few years the life insurance companies have invaded the practice of medicine more or less insidiously, and these little activities of their employees in behalf of quackery are natural enough. The best of nurses is incompetent to advise anybody what treatment is best, and the good nurses never do give such advice. Viavi is a preposterous humbug and has been exposed in such various reputable publications and authorities. The insurance company which employs this busy body nurse and a good many others of similar type, exacts from the customer an outrageously high price for the funeral insurance on which the company thrives. I thank God very much that life insurance is not a business to be run by such companies, and to do it if it comes to that without complaint. But it seems to me that another investigation committee is needed right now to bring various gigantic insurance corporations back to the legitimate field of life insurance. I warn the layman to beware of the subsurface and bare faced quackery which is being practiced upon certain classes of policy holders by these so-called insurance companies. The good companies who exact such excessive premiums from unfortunate customers that they have these enormous surplus funds to spend for nurses and so called health service are robbing the man they insure in order to extend their paternalistic "care" to his widow or orphan—provided the widow and orphan submit to being thus "insured" with the same outfit. Miss Verona Koch, a teacher in the Menominee, Mich. high school spent the previous Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Koch.

John Calder, Jr., 18, 116 Abbey-ave., Neenah, suffered the loss of his right arm as a result of being thrown under the wheels of a southbound Northwestern train on the Bates-st crossing at about 8:45 the previous Saturday evening, when he tried to board the train while it was moving.

The Misses Frieda and Alma Bartman, 501 Walnut-st. entertained a party of friends at a Halloween party the previous evening.

Marriage licenses were issued that morning by County Clerk William F. Wolf to Jacob Kromer and Anna J. Schomisch, both of Kaukauna; Ernest Funk and Marie Gullbusch, both of Appleton; Frank Vander Hooyen of Liberty and Rachel Mitheliser of Appleton.

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

POSTAL ECONOMIES
Washington, D. C. — Economies are being effected in the operation of Uncle Sam's postal service as well as in other departments of his business. At the end of a year they aggregate a tidy sum. However, despite all the savings that are being brought about, the Post Office Department still shows an annual deficit and there is nothing in the situation to justify the expectation that there can, should, or is likely soon to be a reduction in postal rates.

A statement to this effect is forthcoming from responsible Department officials because of stories somewhat widely published to the effect that postal economies may or should be reflected in reduced rates, and particularly in reduction of one story that the rates on second class matter might be the first to be cut. This last is particularly important and interesting — if true — to newspaper publishers.

This story contained the following: "Nobody would accuse the Post Office Department of willfully concealing any facts regarding its operations, much less attempting to deceive its best customers as to the overhead on which it bases its prices. Nevertheless, the bald fact remains that, whereas the postal officials have been stoutly insisting that they can not get along on lower rates without risking a dangerous deficit, they have been quietly cutting their operating expenses right and left. And never a word about passing any part of these savings to the customers."

Joseph Stewart, Special Assistant to the Attorney General for the Post Office Department, says that this article is wholly unfair in its thinly veiled innuendo apparently inserted for the purpose of misleading the reader to believe that the Post Office Department is capable of "willfully concealing any facts regarding its operations" that would tend to show that through the economies effected it would be feasible to reduce postal rates.

A THIRTY MILLION DEFICIT—As a matter of fact, this official points out, Uncle Sam's mail-carrying business with all its adjuncts, is still in the red when a balance is struck between income and disbursements. "The annual report for the fiscal year 1926," said Mr. Stewart, "will show in detail the actual receipts and expenditures of the Post Office Department for that year, and will demonstrate a net operating deficit of perhaps $30,000,000."

There is, of course, not the slightest basis for the insinuation that the Post Office Department, as a whole, is being operated at a profit and is endeavoring to cover up the facts rather than initiate steps toward reduction in postal rates.

"Neither is there, in the face of a computed loss of over $74,000,000 on second class matter in the fiscal year 1926, proper justification for the headline, 'Large economies effected which should allow the Department to reduce second class charge.'"

While Mr. Stewart does not say so, the implication may be drawn that the loss on carrying second class matter is responsible for the annual deficit, two and a half times over. If this loss is still approximately $75,000,000, as it is said to have been in 1925, then if the rates on second class matter were sufficient to pay the actual cost of carrying and handling that mail, instead of showing a deficit of some $30,000,000 the Department would have a surplus at the end of a year of about $45,000,000. It would then be in a position to consider a proposal that rates be lowered.

It may be inferred from the attitude and views of Department officials although they do not indulge in prolixity, that there is exceedingly slight prospect of a reduction in second class rates so long as those rates do not yield revenues sufficient to meet the cost of operation.

In connection with the long-familiar question of a postal deficit it is not to be forgotten that there would be little or no deficit, and indeed a surplus would be shown every year, if the cost of carrying official mail were deducted from the total operating expenditures. That is to say, the Government is not doing business at a loss, on the whole, so far as postal operations for which it is paid are concerned.

But the frank mail of members Congress and other officials and the Government bulletins and other publications that are carried free of charge add a whopping big item to the operating costs of the establishment over which Postmaster General Harry S. New presides. This mail necessitates additional personnel and greater outlays in almost every branch of the postal business, and there are those who contend that it should never be held that the Department shows a deficit.

—WHERE SAVINGS HAVE BEEN MADE
One of the noteworthy ways in which savings have been effected by the Department is in the rental of quarters or supplemental quarters for post offices. In Chicago, for example, a lease was negotiated for 175,000 square feet of floor space for $34,000 where two years before $137,000 was paid for 160,000 square feet. This was accomplished through bringing out a number of competitive bids instead of paying virtually any price that was asked for available and desirable floor space. In Boston, similarly, a lease was made at $1.29 per square foot in territory where the sale price of land is $22 per square foot.

In the parcel post service a survey has disclosed the possibility of large savings through equipment that will reduce handling costs. The mere matter of changing the arrangement for the storage of mail bags in Government buildings throughout the country results in an annual economy of $30,000, while in the operating of mail trucks the cost of performing an hour of motor-truck service without driver has been reduced 24 cents. This adds up to the neat amount of $3,600,000 in the cost of producing the 15,000,000 hours of such service required each year.

In the Rural Free Delivery service, through the consolidation of routes and other economies, savings that amounted to $282,771 were effected between October 1 of last year and June 30 of this year. Keeping a closer check on the personnel of the entire postal organization, with especial attention to time lost through sick leave, and the like, saved more than $600,000 during the last six months of the calendar year 1925. Replacing clerks with laborers, cleaners, and janitors, where the duties called for such changes, will save all most half a million dollars this year, it is said, and a plan is being worked out that will save employees' time of an aggregate value of $150,000 to $200,000 a year by paying them by check, in the larger offices instead of the present system of payment in cash, which necessitates each employee waiting in line an average of 20 minutes twice each month.

There are numerous smaller items of saving — among others, $52,600 in

See-Sawing On Broadway
By Gilbert Swan

New York — Club rooms have their advantages, but those who follow the various arts and crafts associated with Broadway seem to prefer to meet on the sidewalk. To the best of my knowledge all available Broadway corners in the mid-Forties are now taken and it would be useless to make application for space.

Each group has, long ere this, learned where to gather, although these meeting places are prescribed by habit rather than written notice. And, since these gathering places change from season to season, due to the overnight appearance of new theaters and skyscrapers, I believe I can safely announce to the potential visitor that the winter schedule of Broadway street corners will be about as follows:

Forty-fourth street, and the "quick and hasty" lunch-counters thereabout, will take care of the movie extras as of old. It is here that the agents of the casting directors know they can always round up enough extras for the average film production. Let the word go out that some heavy casting is under way and watch the mob!

Forty-sixth street—The musicians, jazz bands, ad lib., cling tenaciously to this spot thanks to the propinquity of the booking office. Just now, thanks to winter activities in cafes the ranks grow thinner. But, despite the cooling weather, you'll see more hatless heads on this spot than any other in all Manhattan. Why do the young jazz bandits refuse to wear hats? Perhaps a hang-over from the summer resort? Or collegiality?

Forty-seventh street — Vaudeville hang-out! Here you'll find the acts from five-a-day to big-time, acrobats to society dancers, hand-spring artists to monologuers. Nearby is a leading trade magazine. Nearby also, are the booking agents!

Forty-eighth street, across the blockers Seventh Avenue — Gamblers hang-out! Everything from craps-shooters to race-horse followers. Chiefly the latter just now. If you want to find out what horse isn't going to win, listen in on an average conversation. This is the land of "chickens today and feathers tomorrow." Tin-horns and gamblers of every fat purse.

Forty-ninth street, also on Seventh Avenue — The film distributors holding their curb market on the side walk. Walk right up and get yourself a nice moving picture! Anything in the cinema!

Fiftieth street, back at Broadway — Detective! Both public and private. They meet and compare notes. This is the fringe of the night club capital. About this section plays that new criminal, the gentleman gangster. Sharp eyes are out for new faces. Here come the stool-pigeons with their tales. Here passes the gossip of So-and-So who is running wild with money on Broadway. Where did he get it? I'll wager there's a good fiction plot a day — or fifteen — if one were on the inside.

Chorus-girl hang-out in the "Shubert alley" between the Booth and Shubert theaters; high-class musicians up around Fifty-seventh, near Carnegie hall; carnival and midway folk around Forty-third street-fakers and their spawn at Forty-second and Forty-third.

Most of them already are in winter quarters.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

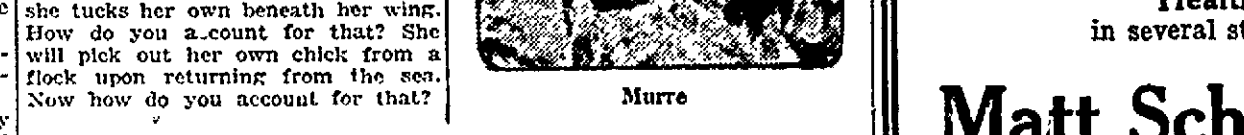

IS HE STANDING UP OR SITTING DOWN?

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.
One of the strangest sights with which Nature provides us is a convention of a multitude of murre. This bird is standing up when he looks as if he were sitting down. They have no particular home and live in crowds on rocks along the Pacific coast.

Since they make no nest one egg is about all the parents can attend to. It can be found on a shelf of rock and the parents take turns keeping it warm. Since the meat of this bird does not taste good hunters leave the murre alone.

It would seem the murre can walk about as easily as you can when your feet are tied but these webbed feet make great propellers and a stiff tail serves as a first class rudder. When a bird returns after being scared from her rocky ledge she will go poking around turning over one egg and then another until at last she tucks her own beneath her wing. How do you account for that? She will pick out her own chick from a flock upon returning from the sea. Now how do you account for that?

Send a stamped addressed envelope (the consulting staff of Nature Magazine and questions of fact having to do with Nature will be answered by arrangements made by this paper.

FLAX CROP MOST PROFITABLE IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN

DON'T FEED MIXED WITH OTHER GRAIN, IS EXPERT'S ADVICE

Combined Growth Is Satisfactory, but Grains Should Be Separated

Madison—(P)—The inadvisability of using a mixed flax and small grain feed for livestock was stressed last week by Prof. A. H. Wright, field crop specialist of the University of Wisconsin's agriculture school, in pointing out the high cost of such a practice and the ill effects resulting from the laxative nature of the mixture.

With many barns over the state filled with such a mixture, the statement from Professor Wright came as an advisory measure in order to correct a false impression held by many farmers that the mixed grain was being used as feed to its greatest advantage. By selling the flax and buying linseed meal, he said, the farmers can realize a greater saving than would otherwise result from the direct feeding method.

COMBINED GROWTH SATISFACTORY

"The practice of growing flax and small grains together, such as wheat, and oats is very satisfactory," Professor Wright stated, because the crop can be harvested, cured and threshed with less difficulty. When mixed it competes with the weeds more easily, he said.

The only disadvantage in the mixed growing process is the necessary separation of the flax from the wheat or oats, he said. Barley is not to be recommended for such mixed growing because it matures too easily, he said.

With the present year's flax crop harvested, Professor Wright presented figures on the average acreage return of the crop in comparison to other small grains in an effort to encourage further flax growing among the farming communities of the state.

FLAX CROP PROFITABLE

"Flax is still the most profitable cash grain crop, but the farmers apparently do not realize the profits to be secured from growing the grain," he said. "The average farmer has become interested in dairying and other farm pursuits and has forgotten that there is such a thing as flax growing."

"During a five year period flax returns per acre were substantially greater than the returns from wheat, barley, oats and buckwheat. The average return for wheat, the highest of the other grains was $20.94 while flax returns, including one bad year in the five, were $25 per acre."

Other figures quoted showed an average return per acre for barley at $19.23; oats 15.42 and buckwheat 12.40. The cost of producing flax is practically the same as the other grains only a slight increase in the cost of labor for threshing the crop being noted, he said.

AVERAGE YIELD HIGH

Urging increased activity in the raising of the crop, Professor Wright stated that the red clay soil of the eastern and extreme northern sections of Wisconsin were the most suitable but at the present time were not being used extensively. The average yield of the crop of Wisconsin is higher than any other state, he said, twenty bushels being the average per acre in many parts while the most conservative estimate in practically all sections is fifteen bushels per acre. The average over the United States is about eight bushels.

"Wisconsin ranks low in production, however," Professor Wright said, "being sixth of seven in the national rating. At present there are about 15,000 acres over the state on which the flax is grown but it is over a scattered territory. Instead of growing it in this manner it should be concentrated in the areas where the yield will be greatest."

A fall in the price of flax some time ago combined with the spread of disease caused a curtailment of the growing, but now, with the development of a wilt resistant in various experimental stations, the crop is practically protected from such loss. The greater part of the present Wisconsin crop is marketed at oil mills, chiefly centered about Milwaukee and Superior. Linseed oil is the chief product of flax together with linseed meal.

ASYLUM ROAD WILL BE KNOWN AS "BROADWAY"

Because the road from the Triangle school east to city limits of Appleton has never had a definite name, farmers whose land fronts on the highway are determined that it shall hereafter be known as Broadway. A concerted effort with this end in view is being made, many of the landowners already having registered their farms with Albert G. Koch, registrar of deeds, as being located on Broadway. Broadway, a stretch of road in question is part of the highway between Appleton and Hortonville. Heretofore it has often been designated as the Asylum road.

SWISS CHEESE MAKERS URGE HIGHER TARIFF

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Petitions from Wisconsin Swiss Cheese manufacturers, urging a 50 per cent increase in the tariff on Swiss cheese, were presented to President Coolidge, Saturday by W. G. Ogg of the American Farm Bureau federation. The tariff commission has been investigating the situation since 1924.

FROM RAGS TO RICHES

She was just a prebean brunet—the cow, not the girl—but she has run off with the championship honors for grade Holsteins at the recent national dairy show in Detroit. She's Larrobelle, whom James E. In the past year she produced 13,022 pounds of milk and 451 pounds of butterfat, more than 10 times her weight.

Farmers Find Trouble In Raising Young Poultry

Seymour—Mrs. Bert Kumrow, route 4, had unusual trouble raising poultry, the past season. Out of 170 chicks, she lost 60 with disease; out of 90 ducks, she raised 60; out of 30 goslings, 15 geese, and out of a total of 40 turkeys hatched, she raised only 20. Mrs. Kumrow will make a study of poultry diseases and go into the poultry raising business stronger next year.

Seymour—Mrs. Fred Klahn, route 4, owing to disease, she thinks, lost a large percentage of her young poultry this season. Out of a total of 150 young chickens, she lost all but 25. She raised 50 young chicks, hatched but had trouble with infertile eggs. Five young turkeys lasted only five days.

Seymour—William Prepp, route 4, has two silos on his farm. One is 12 by 35 feet and the other, 12 by 14 feet. He filled one of these and the other about one-half, this season with 20 acres of corn. Last season 15 acres filled both silos. After the corn was cut with a binder he had difficulty in hauling it through the mud out of the field. As he considers the feed of very low value on account of frosts and bleaching and as the cost of harvesting is very great, Mr. Prepp has 10 acres of corn, well-ripened and ripened still standing in a field. He has turned his sheep and cattle into the field. Because the stalks are withered or decayed, and growers will get very little in the way of feed to meet the cost of labor, Mr. Prepp says that it is absolutely useless to fill silos with corn that is still in the field. Mr. Prepp has a flock of 90 high grade Shropshire and Oxford sheep from which he sold 90 lambs and 850 pounds of wool this season. For some reason, Mr. Prepp has had trouble raising poultry this season. He started with 200 chicks but raised only 250, with 25 goslings but raised only six geese, and with 23 turkeys but raised only seven.

BUTTER MARKET WAS FAIR DURING WEEK

Cheese Trading in Small Volume; Hog Prices in Downward Move

Madison—(P)—A satisfactory situation on the butter market was reported by the state department of markets in its weekly review, although supplies were quoted as limited and buying was not very active.

"Conditions were generally satisfactory during the past week," the report stated, "and several fractional price advances took place. Dealers expressed confidence in the situation. The demand improved toward the latter part of the week but was very light at the close of the week. Centralized car market supplies were ample to meet the demand and trading was quiet. Butter prices are about 1 1/2 cents lower than a year ago at this time."

SMALL CHEESE TRADING

"Buyers of cheese were difficult to interest and trading was of small volume. Later in the week trading improved, but buyers filled only their immediate needs. Weather conditions have not been entirely favorable and have affected production to some extent. As a consequence, receipts at Wisconsin warehouses have recently been falling off. Cheese prices are the same as last year at this time."

HOG PRICES DECLINE

"A decrease in shipping demand, coupled with other factors, caused declines in hog prices with the exception of pigs, which, under a seasonal expansion in demand, moved up 25 to 50 cents as compared with the previous week. Backing sows fluctuated considerably improving their position by around 25 cents early in the week only to exhibit a decline of 35 to 50 cents later. The next decline in packing sows values, as compared with the previous week, was 15 to 25 cents. Hog prices are about $2.00 higher than last year at this time."

"Excessive supplies of cattle caused price declines ranging from 50 cents to $1.00. Long yearlings held up much better than the other classes losing only from 25 to 50 cents. While light yearlings declined 25 cents at the most. Cattle prices are about $2.20 lower than a year ago at this time."

HEN BREAKS LAYING RECORD WITH 348 EGGS

Agassiz, B. C.—There's a new world's record for laying of eggs by a hen in a year. A white leghorn at the University of British Columbia has produced 348 and the year still has a few days to run. The previous record, 347, was held by an Australian hen.

UNIVERSITY LISTS BOOKS FOR WINTER READING ON FARMS

Practical Volumes Available Through Wisconsin Library Service

Madison—(P)—When winter grips the farmlands and the farmer ceases to toil in the fields, an opportunity to increase the efficiency of the farm and its management is afforded by the University of Wisconsin's library service in its publication of a ten book list dealing with all phases of farm operation.

Many of the books contained in the list are the works of professors at some time connected with the university and the group has been so arranged as to provide a general survey of all the problems confronting the farmer in his management of livestock and land.

Instead of dealing with the more scientific explanations and theories of farm management, often too technical for the average laymen, the university authorities have striven to incorporate in the list an accurate outline of the principal elements in the routine of farm life.

BOOKS ARE PRACTICAL

Only the works of those authors who have had actual experience with farm management or operation have been included in the list of authoritative volumes. The group of books has been arranged for the farmer not already in possession of works on farming industry.

Although the books are not supplied by the library, the places where they may be secured are included in the book list. For farmers desiring additional information, the library has prepared a list of one hundred books of a similar nature, but more specific in their content and covering a wider range of material.

With the coming of winter the demand for the books is expected to be materially increased as the farmers strive for means of increasing their production.

By seeking to incorporate the best works in the lists, the university authorities hope to eliminate the "back" work of mere observers who base their conclusions on the needs of the farmer on one day trips through the areas, Mr. Hean said.

Coming from the university, the material covered in the books deals with Wisconsin problems particularly and thoroughly covers the field of dairying, horticulture and engineering. Sociological problems are also discussed in some of the books in relation to the farm communities.

In the future, Mr. Hean said, material of especial interest to farm women will be compiled, dealing with home economics and other topics.

The list of ten books, available at all book stores by the placing of orders, is as follows: Common Diseases of farm animals, Craig; Farm Horticulture, Hood; Feeds and feeding, Henry and Morrison; Productive Poultry Husbandry, Lewis; Productive Farm Crops, Montgomery; Beginnings in Animal Husbandry, Plumb; Equipment for the Farm, Ramsower; Productive Soils, Weir; Farm Management, Warren; Handbook for Farmers and Dairymen, Wolf.

The list of 100 books is made available to the farmers through written application to the University of Wisconsin library, and the works may be secured in the same manner as those on the list of ten.

BOSS'S A LADY AND SHOULD HAVE DIGNIFIED NAME

Madison—Unlike Pullman car names, dairymen do not seek distinguished and obscure names for their cows. Such names as Apple-sauce, Our Hired Girl, Profitmaker, Bucketful and So's Your Old Man are the rule. Other names found in Wisconsin's blue book of high production are Leviathan, Coney Island, Wild Susan, Annie Laurie and Alice of Wonderland.

RAINS AND FLOODS TO BENEFIT FARM SOILS

Des Moines, Iowa—(P)—The silver lining of the rain clouds that poured tons of water over each Iowa acre during September will be visible to farmers of the state when next year's crops are harvested.

A few weeks ago, flooded streams and inundated lowlands forced the crop losses. But cheering statements from experienced observers indicate that this year's scattered losses will be offset by many indirect benefits through the replenishing of the water reservoir.

For many years the water reserve has been depleted. Scarcity of top soil water has interfered with crop growth and the gradual lowering of the permanent ground water level has caused shortage of well water.

This year's rains came at a season when the crops were dormant. The water penetrated the lower levels, and also replenished the soil water supply. It is estimated that only about 25 per cent of the precipitation was carried off by the streams and that the balance has so saturated the soil that the benefit will be marked during the next growing season and may be noticeable for the next three or four years.

terial of especial interest to farm women will be compiled, dealing with home economics and other topics.

The list of ten books, available at all book stores by the placing of orders, is as follows: Common Diseases of farm animals, Craig; Farm Horticulture, Hood; Feeds and feeding, Henry and Morrison; Productive Poultry Husbandry, Lewis; Productive Farm Crops, Montgomery; Beginnings in Animal Husbandry, Plumb; Equipment for the Farm, Ramsower; Productive Soils, Weir; Farm Management, Warren; Handbook for Farmers and Dairymen, Wolf.

The list of 100 books is made available to the farmers through written application to the University of Wisconsin library, and the works may be secured in the same manner as those on the list of ten.

FOREST JUNCTION FIRM TAKES FOUR COWS FROM SALE

Two Purebred Animals With Exceptional Records Purchased at Fond du Lac

Special to Post-Crescent

Forest Junction—Four head of purebred Holstein cattle were acquired by the Seybold-Kloehn farms here from the Clark Special Holstein sales which closed at Fond du Lac on Friday. Two of the animals, one a heifer, the other a cow with a record of 30 pounds of butter in 7 days, were consigned to the sale from farms in Ontario, Canada; one yearling heifer was consigned from Minnesota; and another, a cow with a record of 25 pounds of butter in 7 days and 1,042 pounds in a year was consigned from the T. P. Stewart farm at Maynard, Iowa.

A total of 431 head was offered at the sale which included consignments New Jersey on the east. The selling price of the animals averaged about $250 to $300. The highest price for a single head was $2,075 and was paid for an Iowa consignment.

Of the six head of cattle which were sent to the sale from here, four were purchased by C. F. Coville of Fond du Lac, one by Fred Voigt of Lomira, and one went to the farm at the state school for the blind at Janesville. The sale was largely attended by people from this locality.

FARM TENANTS CAUSE MUCH WASTE OF SOIL

Stillwater, Okla.—Oklahoma farm lands are suffering from the migratory caretakers who are in charge of the soil. More than half of all Oklahoma farm tenants and their families broke off their residence and farm relations and moved to other farms during the year.

"This study," says J. T. Sanders, head of the department of agricultural economics at Oklahoma State College, "shows that about 7,000,000 acres of Oklahoma land had new caretakers as a result of the enormous migration."

Tenants who are not permanently established on a farm take no interest in soil conserving policies which require many years to complete. As a result the state is losing thousands of dollars annually through infertile lands.

This wholesale moving of tenant farmers has given Oklahoma a problem which can be solved only by establishing farmers on land where they will keep a permanent residence.

Gas Spoiled Sleep, Made Her Dizzy

"For years I suffered from gas on the stomach, bloating and constipation. Used to eat headaches and dizzy spells. The first dose of Adlerika gave me relief. Now, I rest well and the gas is gone."—Mrs. Blanche Brinkley, Unlike most medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestines a REAL cleansing and bringing out old poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily, you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out, which may have been causing all your trouble. In slight disorders, like occasional constipation, GAS bloating, indigestion or sick headache, ONE spoonful always brings relief.

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. It is excellent for intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Doctors Praise Adlerika

Dr. H. L. Shoup, New York: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. C. Curl: "I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. M. F. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose."

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In Appleton at Voigt's Drug Store and other Druggists. adv.

Model Introduces New Code Of Conduct "Don't Slap Unless You Have To" Is Rule

BY MARRIAN HALE
NEW YORK.—"Be broadminded, dearie, be broadminded," was Dolly's advice.
Dolly was a tall blonde with long, wavy, yellow hair who was a first-row chorus girl in the "heavy" season. She had taken me under her wing my first day as a fashion model in a large New York wholesale dress house.
Being broadminded this time meant standing before a loud mouthed buyer from Nebraska and letting him push chocolate-covered gin drops in my mouth with his sticky fingers.
The August air was sultry and the showroom full of O. T. B.'s (Out of Town Buyers) grouped around tables in the six little booths.
ALWAYS BUSY
Eight of us were working busily. We wriggled into dresses, modeled them to each of the separate booths down the full length of the show-room, returned to the dressing room and hurried out of them while the colored maid pulled at the long tight sleeves (everything for fall has long sleeves). This was our treadmill.
Two hundred and fifty smart frocks with queer cuts, odd-shaped capes and a profusion of embroidery composed the "line," many exact duplicates of Parisian models.
This particular time I put on a dress of deep chamois, the new light wine shade, with a floating cape hanging from one shoulder.
I glided to the wall opposite booth No. 3 and "modeled up," pausing to announce the wholesale price.
"Sixteen seventy-five."
I pivoted and held out the cape, giving them a back view.
"Number?" queried Harry, the salesman, seeing that the O. T. B. was becoming interested in the dress, or me.
"Number 314," I answered. The models must know the price and number of each dress without referring to the ticket on the sleeve.
Some buyers bashful elderly men never look at the girls, but focus their attention on the dress, apparently afraid of being vamped. Others stare boldly at the model, and buy any dress, willy-nilly, that a favorite model wears. Still others consider the showing of styles just as they would a musical comedy revue.
"I've got your number," grinned the O. T. B. in 1918 slang "Come here, sister."
He beckoned me to the table and opened a large red-ribboned box of chocolates, selecting one.
"Love and kisses from me to you," he said in husky baby talk and poked a chocolate drop between my lips.
The inside of the candy was gin and I bit down on it the liquid squirted out between my teeth. I tried to swallow. My tongue and throat burned. The men roared. I rushed back to the dressing room in a rage.

"BE BROADMINDED"
Dolly had seen the incident as she was waiting her turn behind the maroon velvet curtains.
"You have to be broadminded in this job, h'l one. Take their jip as long as you can and don't slap 'em unless you have to."
The tall blonde had summed up the model's philosophy as I later learned.

SATIN SLIPS
Slips of changeable satin, or of iridescent fabrics are used under chiffon gowns.

POPULAR COLORS
Yellow and green are being promoted as the most popular colors for winter resort costumes.

NO BACKS
Attractive combinations of silk and lace to be worn under evening gowns are made without backs, so that they may do service under the most low cut evening gowns.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

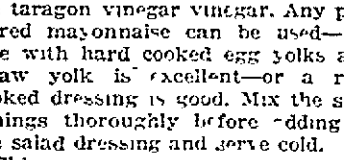

BREAKFAST—Whole wheat cereal cooked with dates, thin cream, French toast, peach and orange marmalade, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Stuffed baked potatoes, celery in cream sauce, whole wheat muffins, apple snow, drop cookies, milk, tea.
DINNER—Filet of sole with tartar sauce, creamed potatoes, hashed buttered beans, molded fruit salad, toast, cheese crockers, grapes, milk, coffee, rolled oat bread.

TARTAR SAUCE
One cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon a French mustard, 1 tablespoon minced capers, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon minced olives, 1 tablespoon minced cucumber pickles, 1 tablespoon chives.

Onions can be substituted for chives if necessary. One-half teaspoon powdered tarragon can be used in place of the tarragon vinegar. Any preferred mayonnaise can be used—the rule with hard cooked egg yolks and 1 raw yolk is excellent—or a rich cream dressing is good. Mix the seasonings thoroughly before adding to the salad dressing and serve cold.

Chives or onion is sometimes omitted if the flavor is objectionable and minced fresh cucumber and horseradish can be added if liked. In this event the olives and onion flavor should not be used.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS--

I'll boost you to the ceiling, Gre, you're pretty safe 'cause if you fall, you'll land right in the bag." Up Clowney went, with Ukey's aid. He didn't seem one bit afraid. And when he settled up above the others yelled "Hokey!"
"Now, close attention, if you please," and Clowney hung down by his knees. The others were so startled that they didn't even prep. Then came a trick they all thought great, as Clowney held his legs up straight, and toppled to the haypile where he sunk down deep.
When he was on his feet again, he bowed to their applause, and then, suggested that some others do the clever stunts on high. Said Scouty, "If I thought I could, and not get hurt, I surely would." And Clowney coaxed, "The very least that you can do is try."

DON'T WRECK UGLY DUCKLING'S LIFE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
In the fairy tales it is always the ugly daughters who are wicked, and unloved. You never catch the beautiful ones doing anything but the sweet, kind things than win them the sobriquets of "Goody Two-Shoes," "Beautiful Bgtt," and names of like ilk.
There is no doubt that the adulation of the world begins early to have its effect upon character. A very young child will know instinctively if it meets your approval. She sees in your face the fact that you think she is pretty and lovely. Just as quickly will she read your feline eyes that say more plainly than words, "What a plain little creature she is!"
I say "she," because girls are more sensitive than boys, about their looks—even very little girls. It is not a matter of vanity—it is deeper than that, the lack of self-respect and the awareness of that lack in them being one of the greatest contributors to what we know as the "inferiority complex," later in life. A plain child loses early its own self-respect unless great care is taken to overcome it. A very kind and otherwise wonder-

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin
The papering of the living room and dining room was finished before twelve that night. Mr. Lane and Bob had teamed together in the living room, and George Pruitt and "Long" Lane had manipulated the long, paste-daubed sheets of green and silver in the dining room. Cherry and Faith had cut cheesecloth and tacked it upon the walls of both rooms, while the men measured and cut the thick, expensive strips of paper. Their part of the work done, Faith had played the piano, and Cherry had sat cross-legged upon the davenport, twanging at her ukulele and singing the latest song hits in her high, childish, sweet voice.
"Looks sorta spotty," said Cherry, "but it'll be dried out by tomorrow night. But doesn't this ratty old furniture look like the Dickens against this ritzy paper? Dad, can't we buy some new stuff—dollar down and a dollar forever? We should worry. We won't live forever, and our grandchildren can finish paying for it."
"Not a stick of new stuff," Mr. Lane said firmly but wearily. "Well, I guess I'll turn in. Got to get on Hathaway's job bright and early tomorrow. How d'you think the work's coming, Hathaway?"
"Splendid, sir," Bob answered with enthusiasm. "Believe you'll finish before the contract date. Good, solid work, too—no shoddy and no skimping."
"Well, good night, folks," Mr. Lane peered about the group of joyous, un-forgotten young people. "Don't keep the girls up late. This is a workin' family, you know."
When he had pattered out of the room and off to bed, Cherry closed the door carefully, then faced the men with sparkling eyes. "Let's celebrate! Let's have the first annual ball of the Myrtle street chapter of the paper-hangers' union!"
"Mother needs quiet," Faith murmured.
"Silly! I don't mean here! We can change our clothes in five minutes and go to Sam's chop suey joint for a midnight supper and dance. He keeps open until two. Three-piece orchestra. Not bad a-tall! Ain't life wonderful?" She whirled around rapidly on the toes of her little low-heeled patent leather slippers and, apparently by accident, hurled her light body into George Pruitt's arms.
"Silly idea!" George Pruitt, with his arms still around her began to fro trot.
"All right," Faith cried blithely. "But we won't have to dress up, will we?"
"Any old thing," Cherry cried blithely. "But keep the soft pedal on, Honey. If Dad gets wise he'll throw a monkey wrench into the party."
Faith took Cherry at her word, and reappeared almost immediately in her white flannel coat, and Cherry's white felt hat, but Cherry, when she joined her fellow conspirators in the living room, wore an evening dress of black chiffon, sparkling with rhinestones.
Faith stared, then flushed darkly with anger and humiliation. "I thought you said any old thing," Cherry! Where did you get that dress?"
"Secret!" Cherry sang out gaily, proudest before the dazzled men, so that she went to the rhinestones played like lightning over her tiny body. "Oh, I won't tease, Faith darling. It isn't mine, really—yet. I took it out on approval—the Vanity Shop. I can have a grand time in it tonight, return it tomorrow, and no harm done."
"That's dishonorable, Cherry," Faith caught the arm of the whirling girl and spoke in a low voice, for Cherry's ears only.
"Don't be a sap," Cherry whispered fiercely. "Mr. Cluny has opened a charge account at three stores for me to shop for my trousseau. He knows we're poverty poor."
"I—I don't think I'll go," Faith dropped her hand from her sister's arm and faced the embarrassed man with upflung head and brown eyes bright with tears.
Bob crossed the room to her in a swift stride. "Please come, Faith. I've never danced with you. Besides," his voice was barely a whisper—"give Cherry her chance. If you're right about George—"
"I'll go," Faith smiled through her tears. "Ready, everybody? How'll we go? Bob's roadster won't hold us all."
"You with me and Cherry with George," Bob decided quickly.
"I've got a sedan with me," George interrupted. "We'll all go in that."
Faith wondered what motive was behind his rather truculent insistence. Was he afraid to be alone

Household Hints

COO SLOWLY
All puddings that should be creamy and smooth, as for instance, custard, rice or tapioca should be cooked slowly.

IF THEY STAND
If boiled potatoes must stand after cooking, cover the top of the pan with several folds of cheesecloth and let it stand on a warm part of the stove. This allows the moisture to escape, but it protects the vegetable from the cold air.

CRISP VEGETABLES
All fresh vegetables should be perfectly crisp before they are put into boiling water to cook. If they have become wilted, they should first be restored in cold water.

SCRAPE CARROTS
Carrots and parsnips should always be scraped, never pared before they are cooked.

BLONDE SALLY RAND WISHES SO THAT SHE WERE A BRUNETTE!

BY DAN THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD.—Gentlemen may prefer blonds—and again they may not, this being a point of controversy among experts.
But do blonds want to be preferred? If Sally Rand, pretty blond maiden of cinema fame, is the girl in question, the answer is "no."
Sally gladly would exchange her golden tresses for those of a darker hue.
"There are plenty of reasons why I would rather be a brunette," she exclaimed. "First of all, I believe I am better looking with dark hair. It suits my features better."
Now Sally isn't hard to look at regardless of mere man's personal taste—as is provided by her picture. "Then too," she continued, "it is much more fun to be a brunette. Men have blonds labeled as all being alike, and all men treat all blonds just the same. They think we are frivolous and unthinking. It is difficult for a blond not to show her thoughts and emotions in her eyes. That's another disadvantage.
"But brunettes, oh, they're all so different! You never can tell what a brunette will do and men know it. That is what makes it possible for dark-haired girls to enjoy themselves more. They can kid a man along and he never knows how to treat them. When a brunette goes anywhere she has the feeling of an adventure, because she doesn't know what may happen. Her eyes don't reveal her thoughts."
So there you are—the blond vs. brunette argument from a new viewpoint.
Sally has played in several pictures as a brunette. She likes herself better that way, and always begs for such roles. And it is not an uncommon sight to see her on the Boulevard or at the Montmartre wearing a dark wig.

200 Attend Banquet For Church Men

The second annual banquet to be given by the Brotherhood of Trinity Lutheran church for men of the church and their friends was held at 6:30 Monday evening at the church. Approximately 100 men were present.

A program was given after the banquet. Musical selections were given by a quartet from Neenah, sponsored by Emily Owen, organist of the local church. Gomer Jones sang a solo and several selections were sung by the Brotherhood.

Prof. Francis M. Ingler of Lawrence college was the principal speaker. He was the subject of the American Youth. He emphasized that we are living in a very different age than our forefathers lived in. The world has changed industrially, politically and socially which has modified our present day, the speaker said.

"The future of the world is limited to friendship within a radius of 20 miles, now have the whole world at their elbows. Manners and customs have all changed and have become the order of the day. Home life has changed; people are flocking to the cities, where the departments; children are not found in the homes, and where they are found, there is a lack of parental responsibility."

The cure, suggested by Dr. Ingler, is a wholesome respect for the authority of the law. He stated that America has the greatest number of murders per year, 100 for every 100,000 population, and Germany has the least, five for every 100,000 population. Dr. Ingler said that there is a great lack of interest in national affairs, for even with the addition of the women vote, only 48 per cent of the voters go to the polls.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet and program consisted of Otto Tilly, A. Zanzig and Edward Kuether. Preparations for the banquet were made by members of the Women's Missionary society with Mrs. Arthur Melzer chairman of the kitchen committee and Mrs. Albert C. Roehl chairman of the dining room committee.

READER PLEASES LARGE CROWD AT PROGRAM HERE

Miss Gertrude E. Johnson, associate professor of speech at the University of Wisconsin, pleased an audience of more than 150 at the University of Wisconsin reading of Robinson's "The White Headed Boy" at Lawrence college conservatory Monday evening. The program was given under the auspices of the National Collegiate Players, honorary dramatic fraternity, installed at Lawrence college Saturday.

Miss Johnson is acting secretary and treasurer of the organization, and was installing officer of the local chapter. A reception in honor of the speaker followed the program. Miss Lucille Welby, of the public speaking department at the college, introduced Miss Johnson to the guests.

Women faculty members and wives of college faculty were entertained by Miss Welby at a reception in honor of Miss Johnson at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. C. College-ave. About 55 women were present.

How Does She Do It!

(Not a Hair Out of Place!)

Do you know the very best way to make hair stay just as you have dressed it? Simply a few drops of Danderine! Try it, and you'll never want to use sticky dressings again—or even brillantine.

A little Danderine on the scalp actually dissolves every particle of dandruff scale, and leaves the head absolutely CLEAN. But stroke a few drops through the hair (use your comb or a Danderine-dampened towel) and see how well it looks and behaves! Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

PAY ANOTHER THOUSAND TO HOSPITAL FUND

St. Elizabeth club paid $1,000 to the sisters of St. Elizabeth hospital to be applied to the free bed endowment fund, making a total of $10,000 paid toward the indebtedness on the fund. The payment was made following the meeting of St. Elizabeth club Monday afternoon in Catholic home.

It was decided at the meeting to hold a food sale Saturday at Belling Drug store. Mrs. Theodore Belling was appointed chairman of arrangements for the sale. Preparations are being made for an open card party to be given the Saturday after Thanksgiving at Elk club. At the next meeting on Nov. 15, a social hour will follow the business session, according to plans made Monday.

JEBE STUDENTS APPEAR IN THEIR FIRST RECITAL

The first student recital of the Jebes School of Music, organized this fall, was given by advanced pupils at the recital hall of the school Monday evening under the direction of F. H. Jebes, president, and E. G. Kappelman, director. Ninety-eight persons were present.

Orchestra parts on a second piano were played by Mr. Kappelman, professor at the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music in Milwaukee with which the Jebes school is affiliated. Two of his pupils, Miss Alice Neumann and Kathryn Uglow pleased with selections by Lachner, Saint Saens and Moszkowski.

Paul Cary sang two baritone solos accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Jebes at the piano. Mr. Cary and Miss Anette post, soprano, are pupils of Mrs. Marie Boehm.

Cello solos were played by Carl Jebes, accompanied by Mrs. Jebes. Miss Marie Strasen of the Milwaukee conservatory, was the instructor.

WEDDINGS

Miss Kathleen Brownson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brownson of Seymour and George Blohm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blohm of Seymour were married last Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. L. Knutzen of the Methodist church at Seymour performed the ceremony.

Miss Erva McCrary and Harvey Blohm attended the couple, and Eunice Brownson and Mildred Peotter, acted as ringbearers. Miss Eleanor Tubbs played the wedding march. After the ceremony a supper was served to about 40 guests, after which Mr. and Mrs. Blohm left on an auto trip through the western part of the state. Mr. and Mrs. Blohm will live on a farm at Seymour.

WOMAN COULD NOT SLEEP

Her Mother-in-Law Knew A Remedy

Mrs. Belle Thompson, of Georgia, was in a very weak and run-down condition for four years. She had great difficulty in getting to sleep at night and even then did not sleep soundly. She would wake up again and again. Besides this her appetite was poor. "My mother-in-law told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash," she writes. "I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and I was not the same woman at all. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does me more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."—Mrs. Belle Thompson, R. 2, Rossville, Georgia.

$1,858 INCREASE IN SCHOOL BUDGET REPORTED BY BOARD

More Money Is Needed to Meet Increase in Teachers' Salaries

Kaukauna—A resolution was adopted at the monthly school board meeting Monday evening in the offices of the Kaukauna high school building that the yearly budget for 1927 for the Kaukauna public schools should be presented for approval at the next city council meeting. The budget provides for $69,535, an increase of $1,858 over last year. It was divided among the three schools in the city as follows: High school, $32,750; Park school, $25,480; Nicolet school, $24,315. The increase is necessary to pay teachers' salaries and also to pay for the weather stripping on the grade schools.

Notice was read from the state educational department informing the board that Mr. Schreiber of the industrial commission would make his inspection soon. The letter also called attention to the poor condition of the lighting system in Park school building. Superintendent J. F. Cavanaugh and James McFadden were to make an inspection of the schools Tuesday afternoon to ascertain the condition they are in.

NOT MUCH HALLOWEEN DISTURBANCE THIS YEAR

Kaukauna—Only one complaint of Halloween pranks played by children Saturday and Sunday evening was received at the police station. This man reported that his concrete mixer, which had been standing in the alley back of his home, had been damaged. Police investigated Tuesday morning. Outside of that there were just the usual harmless stunts. Playground equipment from various playgrounds in the city was scattered about, but was not damaged. A great many homes reported soap on their windows and many of the business places were so honored. There was also the general amount of tick-taking and putting toothpicks in door bells, going on.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 532 N. Marcellus Avenue, Manassas, Va. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation. Adv.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

Your Doctor takes no chances

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often comes from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

He prescribes the most active and the safest drugs to combat your ailment.

They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often comes from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

Your Doctor takes no chances

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often comes from sluggish kidneys.

ILY 30 PER CENT OF CORN MATURES BEFORE FREEZING

utagamie-co Cabbage Continues to Be Encourag-

Madison—(P)—Thirty per cent of the Wisconsin corn crop was matured beyond serious damage when killing frosts occurred in early fall, although harvesting was made difficult by wet weather, a report for the month of October issued by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture stated.

Crop conditions throughout the United States are also covered in the report, based on statistics compiled by the United States department of agriculture.

Practically all crops of the state and nation are dealt with in the two reports.

The report stated: "Potato yields are uniformly good in Wisconsin with the price prospect favorable on account of another dry crop in the entire United States. Dry rot in some commercial crops in Wisconsin is an unfavorable factor."

"Hay and oats made average yields. 'All regions of the state were unusually uniform this year as to condition of the staple crops: Hay, oats, barley and potatoes."

"October returns from crop reporters on yields of oats and barley verify the Sept. yield estimates. The quality of oats this year is poor—11 points below average."

"The buckwheat crop at time of harvest was slightly above average. The condition of 81 per cent indicates a total Wisconsin crop of 508,000 bushels or 9 per cent below last year's crop. The estimate for the United States is 4 per cent larger than last year."

"Much of the bean acreage in central Wisconsin was frosted before ripening. The final output of the crop is, therefore, uncertain. The estimate for the United States is considerably less than the 1925 crop but more than the 5 year average."

"What seemed like a promising red clover seed crop was altered by September weather. The seed was well, but cuttings were exposed to several weeks of wet weather. Sprouting in the fields is common and the quality of the seed still to be hauled from the fields and hulled is not encouraging."

"The cabbage crop in the Racine, Kenosha and Outagamie areas continues in good condition. The yield prospects are likewise good for Danish cabbage in New York state."

"Sugar beets in Wisconsin have generally made good yields. 'With more than enough rainfall pastures in Wisconsin are better than usual. The October 1st condition of 88 per cent is 6 points above the 5 year average."

"The Wisconsin harvest of cranberries is one of the largest on record. The crop will probably total 70,000 barrels compared to last year's small crop of 25,000 barrels."

The report of the U. S. department stated: "The corn crop is now estimated at 8 per cent less than last year's crop and 6 per cent below the average during the last five years."

"Frost damage to this year's crop covered a smaller area and was less severe than in either 1924 or 1925 when the crop in the corn belt was severely damaged by killing frosts. No frost damage of consequence has been reported from Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, or the southern half of Illinois. Only about 7 per cent of the

LILLIAN GISH A SUPERLATIVE ARTIST

Lillian Gish has given the world "Romola," the heroine of "The Birth of a Nation," and other notable roles—but as "Mimi" in La Boheme now showing at the Elito theatre she caps the climax of her career. Probably no one else in the entire world fits the role as she does she is a veritable reincarnation of the author's brain-child. A wistful wisp of humanity, buffeted by the world, whose love can fire a man to genius; she is the spokeswoman of many a charmer of the Latin quarter and the echo of the tragedy of the women of the art colony. She does it with an artistry that is superlative.

John Gilbert, as the romantic poet, Rodolphe, with his ardent love, his fits of jealousy, despair, and flights on Pegasus, has a role he handles with a skill that is veritably genius.

As the vivacious Musset, Renee Adoree is genuinely French, charming and convincing and Edward Everett Horton as the humorous Colline is a wonderful foil.

"La Boheme" re-establishes King Victor more firmly than ever upon the pinnacle of fame which he mounted with the production of "The Big Parade," acclaimed as the mightiest screen success ever known to the industry. "La Boheme" has been hailed by the New York critics as a worthy success to "The Big Parade" with entire justice.

COMEDY, PATHOS AND DRAMA IN THIS FILM

There is said to be an excellent blending of comedy, drama, and pathos in "His Buddy's Wife," at the New Bijou Wednesday and Thursday. The heart throbs are furnished in sequences between two war buddies and a beautiful New England girl whom they both love. Most of the comedy is injected through some small-town characters who have set such high ideals for their neighbors that they forget what they do themselves.

Opening in New England to the tune of beating drums, when a home-town boy marches away to the war, the scene shifts to the trenches on the edge of No Man's Land and then back to New England life, where it is said that Tom Torries, the director, has caught a vivid portrayal of the typical American village.

Glenn Hunter and Edna Murphy are the featured players and the crop in Nebraska and 14 per cent in Iowa had failed to reach the hard dough stage at the time of the killing frosts of about September 23 and 24. About 20 per cent of the crop in South Dakota, from 30 to 40 per cent in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, and about 45 per cent in North Dakota was reported as immature when frost occurred.

"Including both tame and wild hay the total 1926 hay crop of the country will be about 94 million tons. In spite of an increase during September of about 4 million tons, due to ample moisture for late hay crops, the total production of 33 millions tons of tame hay is still below last year's short crop of 37 millions tons and much below the large crop of 98 millions tons in 1924.

"The apple crop is estimated to 234,252,000 bushels. This is about a third larger, than last, closer grading, than usual, induced by market conditions, seems likely to hold the volume of commercial apples."

BADGER FORESTS TOO WET TO BURN DURING OCTOBER

Wet Season Reduced Fire Losses to Practically Nothing
This Year

Madison—(P)—Forest fire loss in Wisconsin has been virtually nothing in 1926 as a result of late fall rains and snows. C. L. Harrington, state superintendent of forests and parks said here today.

Blankets of snow in the northern part of the state have done much to prevent blazes he said, and the ground has been damp from continuous rains.

Along with favorable weather conditions, Mr. Harrington said the campaign against fires caused by careless woodsmen and tourists has done much to prevent destruction of Wisconsin forests. Earlier in the year a warning was sent out giving explicit instructions on reporting and fighting fires.

"The number, extent, and destructiveness of fires," he said, "depends upon weather conditions primarily. The normal fire season over this region of Wisconsin opens about April 1. The risk is light for the first fifteen days. April showers bring not only May flowers, but also cut down the risk from forest and out-over land fires. With the approach of May the risk rises, and becomes most acute the second and third weeks of this month. The greening out of the vegetation reduces the risk materially the latter part of May, and through June, July and August the risk normally is light because of well distributed summer rain."

"However, it should be borne in mind that a very distinct summer fire risk may develop with any sort of drought condition which not infrequently occurs. With the browning of the vegetation in the fall the risk from fires rises sharply, and the month of October is the month of greatest hazard. The warm days of Indian summer with frosty nights and browned off vegetation creates a situation of high hazard from all outdoor fires. All the highly destructive fires in the states, such as the Cloquet, Peshtigo and others have occurred in October. The normal weather conditions of the state, therefore, indicate the hazard from outdoor fires in the spring and fall months. Of course, variations occur from season to season. For instance, the season of 1924 was relatively wet, and no material risk from fires all during the summer season developed. Again the prevalence of rains in the spring may reduce the fire risk to the vanishing point."

role of "next importance is in the capable hands of Douglas Gilmore, the sterling young actor who scored such a hit as the star of "White Cargo." The balance of the cast is comprised of such well known names as Blanche Davenport, Harlan Knight, Gordon Begg, Cora Williams and Flora Finch.

YEARLY INCREASE IN BADGER TOURIST TRAFFIC

Madison—(P)—The percentage of foreign automobiles in Wisconsin traffic has increased from 8.8 per cent in 1919 to 17.4 per cent in 1926, it is shown by traffic counts in every county of the state.

The figures compiled by the Wisconsin highway commission show that approximately 221,000 foreign cars were counted in eight days in 1926 while in 1925 the number was 189,108 representing an increase of 11 1/2 per cent.

BEGIN INVENTORY OF COUNTY MACHINERY

Inventory of Outagamie-co owned road construction and maintenance machinery for 1926-27 was started Friday. It was reported at the county highway commission office.

It is estimated that the county visiting Wisconsin in 1926 was estimated at 3,600,000.

The eight days count of 1926 showed an increase in total traffic over 1925 of 5 1/2 per cent. The total increase of Wisconsin cars was shown to be 4 per cent during the last year.

Varicose Veins Reduced Or Money Back, Says Voigt's Drug Store

This Simple Home Treatment Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunions you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning as directed to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moore's Emerald Oil, besides being one of the most powerful antiseptics, capable of destroying the most pernicious germs and the poisons caused by them, is also a marvelous healing agent.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. Voigt's Drug Store sells lots of it.

ORANGE GRIDMEN HOLD ONLY ONE PRACTICE THIS WEEK

Shields Sends Charges Through Paces Tuesday Then Rests Five Days

Begin Intensive Work Monday for Kaukauna; Injured Men Get Good Rest

Only one practice this week and three next week before the most important game of the season, that with Kaukauna high, will be the menu for Coach Joseph Shields' strapping Orange gridmen. The game will be played at Kaukauna on Armistice day, Nov. 11. The Appleton men have shown increased strength by tying West Green Bay and losing to East, 7-6, in the last two weeks, but the Kaukauna game has been moving down the right and left, ending their play before meeting Appleton with an easy 28-0 win over Two Rivers. Fans at the game say the Smithmen could have added more markers. As a result Kaukauna is given a slight edge on the Orangemen for the big game, considering its 12-0 victory last fall. This was the big surprise of the year and Kaukauna is likely to pull the same surprise this fall.

The Orangemen were to scrimmage Tuesday afternoon at Lawrence field, after which they were to be dismissed until Monday. At that time intensive work will take place until Wednesday afternoon when the Shieldsmen will close preparations for the big battle with a long signal practice. Coach Shields will be at the teacher's conference in the latter part of this week. All of the Orangemen youths are in good condition with three exceptions and the five-day rest is expected to be the best possible remedy for these boys. They should be "raring to go" by Monday with their injuries having a chance to heal by long rest.

The injured men include two backfield stars, Johnston and Witzke, and Schaefer, crack end. Without the three men the Orange lineup will be greatly weakened for a game when every bit of strength is needed. All three men are good defensive players. Schaefer injured his neck in the East Green Bay game when he was the subject of plenty of extra rough play by Baymen. Johnston did yoman's service against West and came out of the game with a charley horse. Early in the latter part of the game, East he injured the game leg and this aided the Reds in beating the local crew as his plunging was below his usual standard. This plunging will be needed to make a dent in Kaukauna's strong line and the local fullback will need all the drive of his bad leg.

Witzke has been out since early in the West high game with a bad leg but it is hoped that he can play Armistice day. He is expected to be in a suit Monday afternoon. He is a star on defense, and his defensive work was greatly missed at the Bay Saturday, especially on the play where Christian passed over the Orange goal line to Queoff for the only Red marker. The Bay end was allowed to get far behind his inexperienced guardian.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Plans now are underway for the organization of a northeastern Wisconsin athletic conference among teams not already in the Fox River Valley or Wisconsin River Valley groups, mostly smaller high schools. Some 14 schools are said to be anxious to join and the movement is one of the finest that could be undertaken by smaller schools anywhere in the state. However, the conference may be a trifle unsteady with the schools as none could play every other school in football and it would be hard to decide a title at the end with probably three or four undefeated teams which haven't met.

It also is probable that they could not meet before winter and the method of deciding "paper" titles by comparing size of scores of two teams over some one or two other teams which both have met is entirely unsatisfactory. Teams expected to be in the conference may include Kaukauna, New London, Manawa, Clintonville, the DePere, Oconto Falls, Oconto and others.

Before Appleton tied West high, Manitowoc, snatching over the defeat by the Orange in the first game of the season, predicted a touch-down win for West. Last week the Chairs said the East-Appleton game was a cut and dried affair and East

JEFF BURRUS

Jeff Burrus, rangy Badger end, distinguished himself early in the first quarter of the Wisconsin-Minnesota game Saturday by racing 80 yards for a touchdown after recovering a fumble. Jeff was chosen all-conference and all-Western end last fall due to his sensational work in the Minnesota and Chicago games. He has two football letters and two crew emblems. He will lead the Badger cormen at Poughkeepsie next spring. Besides this he has a fifth W as a member of the Badger championship water basketball team of two years ago.

M'GRAW EXPECTS TO TRADE THIS WINTER

During the world series, Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants let it be known that several old faces would be missing in his club's lineup when the season opens. He expects to be a busy trader during the winter.

Minneapolis—Johnny O'Donnell, St. Paul, defeated Pat Moran, New Orleans (10.)

would win with the greatest of ease again. The Champs got fooled badly. Here's the dope from Manitowoc before the game, let you know later what they say now.

Football games that hold Manitowoc interest are of that cut-and-dried variety. None of the games is a toss-up to our way of figuring and the winners will cop without much trouble. Appleton, for one, is going to get a neat set back at the hands of East Green Bay. Two Rivers, though entertaining hopes of victory is going to be set down by Kaukauna and Marinette is going to find Oshkosh easy, permanently thrusting the Savdusters into the muck of the conference bottom.

Coach Bill Smith is working his boys hard this week and the first part of next for a second straight triumph over their greatest rival Appleton. The Smithmen have improved greatly since the West high game and are slight favorites to beat Appleton. The Kaw team boasts one of the fastest rear walls of the valley and a line said to be stronger than either East or West Green Bay. On the other side a coach who won't take odds from any of 'em when it comes to knowing football.

Confidence Is Necessary Asset In Football Games

BY "SWEDE" OBERLANDER

Just as sufficient confidence is necessary for the success of any championship team, an overdose of it is an undermining influence. Once it has taken hold it is difficult to remove.

There are those old sayings which always are repeated to a team that are, indeed, true. One of them is, "you can't be licked if you won't be licked." The proper mental attitude of a team entering upon a big game is an important deciding factor. A team never should start with the feeling of inferiority. Yet a team never should be allowed to get the idea that no matter what brand of football it presents, it can win regardless.

Dartmouth was particularly impressed with that fact during last season. We were playing Brown in their new stadium at Providence. On the preceding Saturday we had taken over Harvard to the merry tune of 33 to 9. We thought nothing in the world could stop us. We were champions already, in our own opinions. In this frame of mind we entered the game which almost dashed to pieces our fondlest hopes. We could trim Brown with only half exerting ourselves.

The game began with Brown taking the offensive. Our passes were not working. Our passes were being hurried. Few were completed. All the while we had the attitude that we were playing winning football.

The first half ended with the score 7 to 0 in our favor, the touchdown resulting from the recovery of a blocked kick and not by any flash of offensive play.

The game was listless. The line was not getting the jump on the defense. The backs were running at half speed. All had the thought that this half-hearted exhibition was sufficient to win.

Even after the coaches had tried their best to knock this cockiness out of us, the second half was no better playing. Another blocked kick in the second half indirectly resulted in our only other score.

The team looks back upon that game as the only dark spot upon their schedule. We simply realized that we hadn't given our all because we thought we were too good to be beaten.

SHIP HARRIERS WIN CONFERENCE HONORS

Led by Capt. Schroeder, Manitowoc Men Cop 1st Valley Competition

Placing four of its runners in the first four places, Manitowoc high school won the first annual cross-country run of the Fox River High School Athletics Conference at Green Bay Saturday afternoon. Capt. Paul Schroeder, a star distance man in the last two conference track meets staged by Lawrence college, covered the 1 1/2 mile course in 11:25 for the conference title. Stam, a teammate, was a close second, with Maresch a soph running his first race, third. Schmidt, a veteran quarter miler was fourth.

The first three men from each school were counted in the scoring. The Ships took the title with the remarkably low score of 6. East Green Bay was second, Marinette third and Oshkosh fourth.

With all its best runners on the football team which played East high the same day, Appleton was unable to enter a team, but may do so at the second annual affair. Manitowoc will enter the state meet at Milwaukee Normal school Friday as representatives of the valley conference.

SICK BROTHER STARTS BOXER

AL FOREMAN

Washington—There may be a spark of fate in the coming fistic bout in New York for the feather-weight championship of the world.

Al Foreman, selected to represent the U. S. army, marine corps and navy in this knuckle-slugging carnival, is seeking the title in an effort to save his brother's life.

Al's brother is badly in need of financial aid as he lies stretched out on a cot in a Montreal hospital. He was crippled recently when his plane crashed to earth.

That is way Al entered the professional ring seriously here recently, after he had won the all-service title by battering his way through a tournament as part of the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia, in which he defeated champions from every branch of the army, navy and marine corps.

Until his brother was crippled, Al refused to take boxing seriously in America. He has scored 15 consecutive victories in army boxing bouts at local posts, including 12 knockouts. But he refused to take public matches until his brother asked for aid.

Then he was matched with Goldie Ahearn, champion of the south, who had just earned a place in the proposed New York tourney by decisively beating Spencer Gardner and Boots Antley.

Ahearn had fought Honey Roy Finesman, Washington ring idol, to a draw. He was a top heavy favorite over the "Soldier Bearcat," as Foreman is called here. But Ahearn looked like a novice before the slashing doughboy, who knocked him out in one minute of fighting.

He may prove to be the dark horse of the tourney—the next champion.

UNDEFEATED TEAMS MEET IN BIG TEN

Purdue and Northwestern Clash in Most Important Battle of Weekend

Chicago—Purdue and Northwestern Tuesday moved to the center of the stage in the Western Conference football drama fast nearing the last act.

There are three other Big Ten games this week but barring the most improbable of upsets, the engagement of most importance in the title battle is between Northwestern and Purdue at Evanston.

Michigan still is reeling from the blow by Navy but Michigan has demonstrated more than enough power to down Wisconsin Saturday and not lose a swift stride toward the championship.

Illinois is a favorite over Chicago but has at best an outside chance of attack as well as in a triple tie for the Wisconsin-Illinois loop lead, the Catlinmen realize that they have to face two of their bitterest rivals in the next two weeks, and will practice accordingly.

The strong showing of the Blue of offense and defense against Lake Forest, which has encouraged Lawrence followers and hope for a repetition of the power and fight against Beloit at Beloit Saturday and Carroll here the following week. Lawrence is a favorite Saturday due to the poor showing of the Blue Devils against Rice, but any thing can happen in a Beloit-Lawrence game especially at Beloit, so the Blue mentor is taking no chances, but will work his men harder than ever this week. Plenty of work will be put on the Lawrence passing attack as well as on a defense to stop the Beloit aerial drive, which always is a dangerous weapon.

With one exception the Blue came out of the Lake Forest game in great shape. Johnson took a hard blow on the knee which kept him out of football last year after the start of the season and limped about on it Monday. However, he is expected to be back at his guard job for scrimmage on Wednesday and Thursday. Blue victories in the next two battles would give the Catlinmen the first grid title of the new W-I conference.

Purdue so far has held Wisconsin to a scoreless tie and downed Chicago and gone outside the conference to hold Navy to a modest winning margin. The outstanding achievement in the Purple record is the holding of Notre Dame to a 6-0 decision.

Chicago bobbed back into the picture Tuesday despite a season's success in conference defeat. Stagg routed his battered team to such heights Saturday that powerful Ohio was stopped for half the game, and now they talk of the Maroon's rising to a new peak in gaint Illinois in the renewal of their moss-hung rivalry.

A basketball tie and downed Chicago counted the injury to Poplaw as one of the costs of victory over Wisconsin but labored enthusiastically with a squad which safely past Iowa in the week's encounter, will give Yost considerable worry before the Wolverines return game with Minnesota two weeks hence.

Pat Page surveyed the wreckage of Northwestern's visit for a team to throw in the path of Notre Dame in a non-conference tilt which is of national interest for its appearance of the Rockne men on the eve of their invasion of a sold out Notre stadium to meet Army.

At Ohio everything is pointing to the Michigan clash a week away in anticipation of which Wilce is giving his generally brilliant team a week ends rest.

Milwaukee—Billy Bortfeld, Milwaukee, outpointed Billy Hall, Chicago (8.)

Irish Tommy Jordan, Brooklyn, won from Low Tender, Philadelphia, on foul (4.)

K. O. Phil Kaplan, New York, won a technical knockout over Cowboy Padgett, Wyoming (2.)

Louisville—(P)—Mike O'Dowd, Columbus knocked out Battling Furrell, Philippines 5.

Veterans Chosen Over For Valuable Players

Chicago—The general cry of fandom in baseball seems to be for younger stars to replace the fading veteran, but since the American League decided to annually select a most valuable player it is the veteran stars who have won the glory.

George Burns of Cleveland, the most valuable man to his club in the 1926 race is far from being a youngster. Burns finished his thirteenth season in the big tent when he learned he had received his diploma.

Ty Cobb, with something like 20 years of active campaigning to his credit, is another American League winner of the most valuable man trophy.

Got down the ancient names of Rogers Peckinpaugh, Walter Johnson and Eddie Collins and you have three more veteran stars who have captured the diploma.

Babe Ruth and George Sisler, of the Yankees and Browns, are the youngest American League players to be so honored and neither can be called youngsters. Ruth is a veteran campaigner while Sisler has spent over 10 years in the big show.

A youngster may flash through the sky like a meteor in flight in the worst series but it's the veteran player who is declared the most valuable man to his club in the season's run.

Curiously enough, all departments of a ball club have won the American League's most valuable player award save the catching department.

Walter Johnson is the only pitcher so far to take the laurels. Peckinpaugh, Sisler, Collins and Burns are infielders, while Ruth, Cobb and Speaker represent the outfield patrol.

Baseball's brilliant White Sox catcher, passed the zenith of his flaming career behind the plate before the most valuable player award was born, costing him a great opportunity to gain the fame of such an appointment.

BLUES POINT FOR BELOIT, CARROLL

Catlin Stresses Pass Offense and Defense; Games Decide W-I Honors

Though George A. Whitting athletic field, home of Lawrence college football teams, was covered with a blanket of snow more than an inch deep, Coach Mark Catlin's fighting Blues started the week Monday afternoon with a light signal and passing drill.

Fresh from their easy win over Lake Forest, which placed them in a triple tie for the Wisconsin-Illinois loop lead, the Catlinmen realize that they have to face two of their bitterest rivals in the next two weeks, and will practice accordingly.

The strong showing of the Blue of offense and defense against Lake Forest, which has encouraged Lawrence followers and hope for a repetition of the power and fight against Beloit at Beloit Saturday and Carroll here the following week. WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
JUDITH MARTIN, young, red-haired, beautiful arriving to teach in Pendleton University meets an earnest man who rescues her from a box on the train refuses to enter into conversation with her.

As she steps from the train at Pendleton, she is met by a young man, giant, green-eyed, seizes her, kisses her and without a word thrusts her into a taxi and vanishes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

The taxi was wheeling into the main streets when Judith first dared to glance out the window. For a moment her heart stopped, as a light topcoat came around the corner. But the coat swung from puny shoulders less than five feet from the ground. And then the sidewalk seemed lined with light topcoats of many descriptions. The owner of the green eyes and the broad shoulders and the strong arm evidently was not to be identified by his coat.

The car left the business district and swung into an avenue lined with old trees and large houses of frame and ancient brick, set far back in spacious lawns.

The driver stretched him head toward the opening toward her. "You say 512 College, miss?" he asked.

She nodded, and the man, after a curious glance at her white face, turned back to his wheel.

A few moments later, they turned a corner and the car shot up a driveway. "Fifty cents, miss," the driver said, when he had nonchalantly set Judith's baggage on the grass by the drive.

"You've been paid once," she retorted. "And kindly carry my bags to the door."

The man grumbled as he followed her up the wooden path steps. On the top step he threw down her bags and departed.

Music and laughter drifted out from the reception hall as Judith fumbled for the knocker. She found instead, an antiquated bell operated by a thump screw, which sent a brassy peal through the house.

The door opened and a youth in a white apron stood before her. "Is this Mrs. Stedway's house?" she asked, almost petulantly, for the youth stood silent and frozen.

"Yes," he drawled.

"I have rented a room here. I suppose I may come in?" Judith found her voice growing brittle.

The youth pushed open the door, making no move to take her bags. The piano banging in the next room stopped, and a pale, blond girl stepped between the folding walnut doors. "I am Mrs. Stedway's daughter, Lillian. I'll show you to your room."

They went up the stairs in silence, and the pale Miss Stedway pushed open a door into a bedroom. "You're Miss Martin, of course. The rest are all here. Supper will be ready in fifteen minutes. You'll hear the song." She turned and descended the stairs.

Just inside the door, Judith stopped and looked rather weakly against the wall. The room was plainly furnished and the white walls, rising indefinitely heavenward, added to its barrenness. But the five windows promised light and air and the counterpane on the white-enameled bed looked clean.

Near the bed stood a large packing box bearing the name of the firm from which Judith had ordered her blankets and bed linen. She inspected the bed more closely. There was nothing between counterpane and mattress. All other necessities had been left for her to supply. Even the golden oak dresser lacked a scarf. It was scarred on top with rings from many perfume bottles, and covered with dust.

Judith set down her burdens and rather listlessly walked toward the bed. Without stopping to unpack the blankets, she lay down on it and closed her eyes.

Some time later she was awakened by a gentle sound coming somewhere below, followed by a burst of noise. In the hall and on the stairs. She sat up with a start and glanced at her tousled self in the mirror opposite. Then she turned out the light again and lay down.

Red tongues of light dancing over the walls and ceiling awoke her next. For a moment she lay staring at them in a panic. Then she rushed to the window and saw a procession of whooping young men leading up the street a strapping lad only in his underwear, and brandishing red torches as they ran.

Every window in the Stedway house went up simultaneously, and Judith heard shrieks of laughter as girls recognized friends in the procession.

"Hi, Jimmy, throw him in the fish pond for me. That's one of the things every young freshman should know." This in a feminine squeal from the porch downstairs.

A sound behind her made Judith turn suddenly. The reflections from the torches were still careening rudely around the room, and their intermittent light struck against someone leaning against the closed door. A pin point of fire burned beside the figure.

Red gleams caught in the black folds of the person's garments and then flickered off. "Who is there?" Judith's voice caught a little.

The figure at the door stretched out a hand and pressed the light switch. Judith saw a black-haired girl of 19 or 20, wrapped in a black satin lounging robe, and holding a lighted cigarette in her hand.

"Sorry if I'm bothering you," the girl said indolently. "I am Myra Aldrich. I just came in to see what all the fuss is about. My windows are on the side."

She walked to the window, gazed a moment and shrugged her shoulders.

Then she moved, with curious swiftness, to Judith's bed, climbed upon it and stretched herself out with her head against the wall. She was still puffing at the cigarette.

"I also wanted to give you this," she said. "It was stuck under my door by mistake. You ARE Judith Martin, aren't you?" She held out an envelope.

Judith glanced at it and laid it on the table. Then she looked at her guest again.

Myra was quite at ease. "I like your room, Miss Martin. 'Attitude' much smaller and barer. You see, I didn't decide to come until the last minute and had to take what I could get."

Judith nodded politely. "It will do very well, when I have found some things to take away the hospital-look. I like these windows."

Myra said, "It's rather queer for me to be here. I don't usually care much for strangers. But this house is pretty beastly, and I got lonely. Have you seen the collection of boards?"

Judith shook her head. "I didn't go down to dinner."

Myra whistled. "Just wait. But you and I'll have to be friends. I've got to have somebody to talk to—especially when I'm in love."

Judith looked at her quizzically. "And are you in love now?" she queried.

Myra nodded casually. She had thrown back her robe, and a dainty red lining deepened the richness of her skin. Her eyes lighted on the packing box.

"Your bedding has come, hasn't it? I'll bet mine doesn't get here for a week. It was only ordered Saturday."

"Put you can't sleep without blankets on a cool night like this," protested Judith.

"Have to. Mrs. Stedway hasn't any to lend, she says."

Judith looked at the single bed. "Come in and sleep with me," she said, impulsively. "We can manage."

Myra displayed no embarrassment. "Very well, perhaps, I shall. You haven't had any dinner, I have a chicken sandwich and a slab of chocolate cake in my room. I'll get them if you like."

Myra's departure for the refreshments gave Judith a chance to open her letter.

"Dear Miss Martin," it ran, "This is to advise you that members of the faculty of the college of liberal arts will meet at 2 o'clock Wednesday at the administration building. It was signed 'Timothy Brown.'"

"You eat and I'll smoke," said Myra, as she came in with the sandwich and cake. "I'll also talk. I feel the need of conversation this evening."

"Very well, perhaps, I shall. You haven't had any dinner, I have a chicken sandwich and a slab of chocolate cake in my room. I'll get them if you like."

Judith flushed. Then she smiled sheepishly. "Yes, I have — and no longer ago than this very afternoon."

He pushed open the door, making no move to take her bags. The piano banging in the next room stopped, and a pale, blond girl stepped between the folding walnut doors. "I am Mrs. Stedway's daughter, Lillian. I'll show you to your room."

They went up the stairs in silence, and the pale Miss Stedway pushed open a door into a bedroom. "You're Miss Martin, of course. The rest are all here. Supper will be ready in fifteen minutes. You'll hear the song." She turned and descended the stairs.

DIRECTORY SHOWS 3,686 PUPILS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

List Names of 170 Teachers in City's School System

The directory of the public schools for the year 1926 and 1927 containing the names and addresses of members of the various boards, teachers, and administrators, and statistical material concerning the schools, was issued last week.

There are 170 teachers in the Appleton schools this year, including 35 men and 135 women, the directory states. The school enrollment is 3,686, consisting of 1,859 boys and 1,827 girls, as compared with 3,566 pupils in 1925.

The registration by schools: Appleton high school, 361 boys, 432 girls, 793 total, and 723 in 1925; Roosevelt junior high, 201 boys, 183 girls, 384 total, and 421 in 1925; Wilson junior high school, 178 boys, 150 girls, 328 total, and 325 in 1925; McKinley junior high school, 43 boys, 42 girls, 85 total and 53 in 1925; First ward school, 230 boys, 194 girls, 424 total, and 450 in 1925; Lincoln school, 73 boys, 68 girls, 141 total, and 170 in 1925; Columbus school, 126 boys, 113 girls, 239 total and 179 in 1925; Franklin school, 140 boys, 123 girls, 263 total, and 206 in 1925; Jefferson school, 167 boys, 158 girls, 325 total and 325 in 1925; Washington school, 188 boys, 196 girls, 384 total, and 410 in 1925; McKinley grade school, 84 boys, 125 girls, 209 total, and 185 in 1925; Richmond school, 44 boys, 39 girls, 83 total, and 74 in 1925; school for the deaf, 6 boys, 2 girls, 8 total, and 10 in 1925.

The fall term at the schools will close on Dec. 17, 1926, and the winter term will open Jan. 3, 1927, it was said. On March 25, the winter term will close, and the spring term will extend from April 4 to June 3.

Postal sub station No. 1 was moved Monday from the Probst pharmacy, 504 W. College-ave, to Frank Slatery's restaurant, 422 W. College-ave. The new station will be ready for business Tuesday.

Will Exchange! A kind hearted man in the first ward has a garbage can in good condition except for a few dents which he will exchange for one scooter. Said scooter is alleged to have been removed by celebrators on Halloween eve. They evidently believed in the maxim that a "fair exchange is no robbery" and left the garbage can in the scooter's place.

If the party with the scooter wishes to make an exchange he can do so by calling the editorial office of the Post-Crescent.

REALTY TRANSFERS The following transfers of city and rural real estate were recorded with 5 in 1925; opportunity room, 12 boys, 5 girls, 17 total, and 10 in 1925.

Our Favorite Sauce, Folks!
November and cranberries with us once more!
But cranberry sauce, Folks, takes sugar galore,
And with fun-berry sauce it just cannot compare!
That's what puts the real "pep" in the day's bill of fare!

Three Cheers!
Mrs. Jackson: "Oh, I think having triplets is SO patriotic!" Nurse: "Well, anyway, the babies are red, the mother white, and the father blue."

Charity Begins At Home!
My wife and I had been arguing for two months about the charity ball.
She wanted to go.
I didn't! I HATE wearing a dress suit. I hate dancing. I hate everything connected with a charity ball.
But she won. She ALWAYS wins!
That night, just before I started getting ready, I yelled downstairs,
"What did you do with my grey suit?"
"I sold it to the ragman."
The tickets to the charity ball were in the upper left-hand vest pocket of that grey suit!
TELL me!
Maybe THAT wasn't my lucky day!

Florida
Florida's back upon her feet.
We know this from the Sunday sheet Which once more carries views of beauts
In Come-to-Palm Beach bathing suits!

Financial
We are unable to obtain confirmation of the rumor that the reason Mlle. Lenon has turned professional was with the patriotic object of restoring the financial position of her country.

Sports
The football season's nearly through.
The kids who haven't wrenched a thaw
Or broke a leg or scarred a brow
Had better start to hurry now!

Topical
We read of an Ohio man who missed a rabbit and shot his hunting companion.
That's not news any more. When somebody misses a hunting companion and hits a rabbit, THAT'S NEWS!

Court Circles
No wonder Queen Marie won't wear These shorter skirts and says "that they're
All full of hokey, blah, and static.
They're not Roumanian - they're

But Doctor!
Dr. Pearson: "I recommend a clean change of environment."
Patient: "But, doctor, I do change
'em every Saturday night."

THIS IS MY LUCKY DAY Sure Was!
I wanted to pop the question, but I lacked the nerve!
Full of love's young dream, I went, late at night, to Gladys' home - simply to be near her. I walked up and down in front of the dark house, basking in the realization that it contained the sleeping form of my heart's desire!

Suddenly a low, piercing hum beset my ears. It continued and grew louder. It sounded like a cross between an airplane motor and a buzz saw. I could not figure out what it was.
Then I heard Gladys' mother call out, "Gladys, turn over and quit that snoring."

ENTIRE STAFF FOR SCHOOL ANNUAL IS NAMED BY EDITOR

Students Hope to Maintain Standards Set in Preceding Years

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—The business manager and editor of the Classmate, the annual publication of the local high school, chosen last week, have selected the remainder of the staff. The group of young people will work together that the annual issue of the Classmate may rise to the standards of fineness set by former years.

The annual is an instrument which acquaints the public with school life. Last year's issue was of uniform beauty and excellency, and through its pages the public was allowed to glimpse an art which was recognized as extraordinary for it was through the illustrations of the Classmate that William Lewis made his amateur debut to his home public. Lewis afterward was given a position in Milwaukee. So it is that the Classmate is watched for because of what its pages may show, for in it student life is given full sway for self expression.

Marie Tremmel has previously been chosen business manager and Richard Cooley, editor-in-chief. R. S. Smith, members of the faculty, will act as advisors.

Recipes for Canned Foods.

Here is an excellent recipe book. It tells how to fix over 200 different dishes—every one out of a can from the grocer.

These recipes include a wide variety of soups, salads, vegetable dishes, entrees, sauces, sandwiches and desserts.

They are authoritative because they are the result of the study of experts.

These recipes are widely taught in schools of domestic science, and will keep any woman posted on the latest methods of preparing nourishing and appetizing foods.

Send to our Washington Information Bureau and get this recipe book. Just enclose four cents in stamps for return postage and handling.

WEYAUWEGA CLUB STILL ORGANIZED AFTER 33 YEARS

Principal G. E. Van Heuklom Elected Head of Shakespere Club

Special to Post-Crescent

Weyauwega—The first meeting of the Shakespere club for the season was held Monday evening at the Ray Hutchinson home. Eleven members were present. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: Principal G. E. Van Heuklom, president; Miss Susie Bennett, vice president; Mrs. Harold Clarke, secretary; A. L. Hutchinson, treasurer. This is the thirty-third season of the club's existence, which makes it the oldest mixed club in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Behnke have announced the marriage of their daughter, Verona, to H. Rasmussen of Milwaukee, Sunday evening at St. Peter's Lutheran church. The Rev. Max Hensel, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Following the services at the church, a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen will live in Milwaukee.

PRELLWITZ-SCHROEDER WEDDING

Miss Edna Prellwitz, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Prellwitz of the town of Bloomfield, and Arthur Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schroeder of Dale, were married at St. John's church, East Bloomfield, at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. The Rev. A. E. Schneider performed the ceremony. Prof. G. A. Nachter played the wedding march. The young couple were attended by the Misses Edna Strey, Leona Grechling and Gertrude Knoke, and Messrs. Carl Zempel, John Schroeder and Emil Knoke. The flower girls were Lucella and Gerol Prellwitz. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. BREAKS A COLD IN A HURRY

"Pape's Cold Compound" is pleasant and affords instant relief

A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end gripe, misery and break up a cold.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dizziness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed up! It's blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine. Don't accept something else.

That Baby You've Longed For

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship

My Baby! How the heart thumps in these magic words—and where there is no baby—no chubby affectionate little arms—no star bright eyes brimming with love—no cheerful smiles and soft baby chuckles—how the heart hurls. Only the woman who has been denied the joys and blessings of motherhood knows the utter loneliness of it. The baby you have longed for. Read what Mrs. Burton says—act upon her advice.

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe hundreds of other women would like to know the secret of my happiness and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me. Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell. Correspondence will be strictly confidential. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton 1596 Massachusetts, Kansas City, Mo.

Fox River Paper Mills Employee Is Jubilant At Quick Relief

Declares ten days of Dreco has almost completely overcome a bad case of stomach distress.

If you are a sufferer from a degrading nervous system, indigestion, blood impurities, rheumatism or similar ills, do not delay another day. Get a supply of Dreco from the Dreco Export at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store and give it a chance to wipe out your troubles just as it has done for so many other men and women in this section.

Read how it helped Mr. Wilbur Whitbrook, 600 North Clark St., this city, a well-known employee of the Fox River Paper Mills. He says:

"I can hardly believe that so little Dreco could make such an amazing change in me but it's a fact that since taking this great new tonic I feel like an entirely different man."

"Ten days ago I was very discouraged. My stomach had been bothering me greatly for sometime and it just seemed that I couldn't get any relief. Everything I ate caused me distress. Sometimes I had heartburn so bad it felt like a lump of red hot coals in my stomach and even a piece of toast would sour and begin forming gas as soon as it reached my stomach. Sour acids would rise up in my throat and I always had a stale nasty taste in my mouth."

"A few days after I started on Dreco I began feeling better and now, ten days after, I can honestly recommend it to everyone and am right now getting a large bottle for my wife. Even in the short time I have been taking it Dreco has almost entirely overcome the indigestion and gastritis and it has completely relieved the heartburn, acid risings and soreness in my stomach. I now have more pep and a bigger appetite than at any time since I was a kid."

Marr Baker, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. downtown drug store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

ASK JUNIOR RED CROSS TO DONATE TO FLORIDA
Seeking donations for the relief of storm sufferers in Florida the American Red Cross, junior division, has written A. G. Meating, county chairman of Junior Red Cross work, asking that the group submit a check for the boys and girls of Appleton and Outagamie.

The letter in part follows:
"Will you make every effort to secure contributions from your respective junior groups? This money is to be used to meet the needs of the storm victims. It is possible that you not urge that junior contributions made for the Florida emergency be considered as special contributions that would regularly be made to the National Children's Fund, in order that the latter may not be depleted to the extent to jeopardize our regular program."

The appeal is made over the signature of Ralph E. Butcher, assistant

LIONS DEBATE PLAN TO FOSTER SYMPHONY HERE
A program of purchasing unusual musical instruments over a period of three months was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Lions club at Conway hotel Monday noon.

The plan, which was suggested by Dr.
E. L. Baker, director of music in Appleton public schools, is to have school children use these instruments with the idea of training musicians to form a symphony orchestra. A definite action was taken on the matter which will be taken up at some future meeting.

SET 600 AS LIMIT OF MEMBERSHIP IN LOCAL LEGION POST

Books Will Close Instant Six-hundredth Veteran Is Signed

Members of Oney Johnston post of the American legion will close their drive for 600 members with a dinner and entertainment in the dining room of First Methodist church on the evening of Armistice day, Thursday, Nov. 11, according to announcement at the regular meeting Monday evening at Elk hall. The program will be a jubilee for the new members and an Armistice day celebration.

Five speakers, including one Legionary of national prominence, are on the program. Those definitely secured are Austin A. Peterson, Milwaukee, state adjutant, Ogden Classon, Oconto, commander of the Ninth district of which Appleton is a part, and Frank J. Schneller, Neenah, commander of the Sixth district. Two other men still are to be secured.

The 130th Field Artillery band may furnish music for a parade before the banquet. The committee for the affair was enlarged. The group met Thursday evening at the office of F.
F. Wheeler to make plans for the celebration.

250 ENROLLED
Reports Monday night showed that 250 members had been secured up to that time. Another report will be made at the meeting next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Books will be closed at 6 o'clock to have the entire 600 members which is the 1927 goal. The final report will be made at the banquet Thursday evening unless 600 members are secured before that time. The campaigners decided that no more than 600 members be taken in and after a satisfactory vote it was decided to close the books for 1927 the instant member No. 600 was secured.

New officers and executive committee of the post, elected at the last meeting, were installed by H. L. Plummer, national executive committee man, and chairman of the last year's committees gave their annual reports.

George Dame, retiring commander, gave the first report, followed by the new commander, Harvey Pribe, of chairman of the welfare committee.

Mr. Pribe's report showed that the post had conducted 20 military fu-erals during the year and members of his committee had made more than 200 sick calls. H. H. Heible, chairman of the Americanization committee, told of his work in getting out the vote aiding.

They took their examinations and providing speakers for Armistice day in the schools. Carl Becker, financial officer, showed that the post had gained financially since last year. Other reports were made by C. O. Baetz, secretary, and E. J. Walsh, treasurer.

Mr. Walsh was a member of the Wisconsin club, the Knights of Columbus and the National Club of Canada.
He was born in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., fifty years ago, of Irish parents. When a small child his parents moved to a farm in St. Louis.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs.
Kittie Walsh; his mother, Mrs.
Richard Walsh, Stockbridge; two brothers and five sisters. A brother, E. A. Walsh, president of the Associated Manufacturers of America, lives in Milwaukee.

His sisters are Mrs. M. Murphy, 1728
Eleventh-st., Milwaukee; Mrs. John Campbell, Hilbert; Mrs. Andrew Flatley, Forest Junction; Mrs. W. Mc-Laughlin, Wrightstown; Mrs. F. E.
Dettling, Los Angeles, Calif.

MRS. FERDINAND LAURISCH
Mrs. Ferdinand Laurisch, 60, died Monday afternoon at her home, 1015 N. Drew-st., after a lingering illness. She was born in the town of Center where she lived until 11 years ago when she moved to Appleton. She is survived by her husband, one son, one daughter, her mother, Mrs. Louise Lilleg of Appleton and two sisters. The funeral will be private and will be at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the home. The Rev. Theodore Marth will have charge of the services. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery.

"MEMBER GETTERS" AT
"Y" ORGANIZE CLUB
Karl Ek was appointed president of the Spizzieringklub club of the Y. M. C. A. at the organization meeting Monday evening at the association building. Horace Davis was also president and Newland Jones, made secretary. The club is composed of boys who secured at least three members in the 1926 membership drive of the Y. M. C. A.

It was decided to make the boy who has secured the most members since the opening of the club at the state convention the highest secretary and the third highest, vice president of the club. Lionel Krueger, the leading "member getter" declined the presidency and the next three highest members took the office.

The work of the club will be securing members for the association plans were made to start the program immediately, each boy working for the next highest button. When a boy becomes a member by inducing three boys or men to join the association, he receives a white button for five members and the next is the blue award for ten. When a boy has secured 10 members he is recognized as a regular member of the new club.
A jeweled button is given for securing 25 members and the boy becomes an honorary member of the club. Plans were made to meet once a month.

BUILDING PERMITS
Only one building permit was issued last Saturday by the city building inspector. It was granted to Ida Greth

CALL FIREMEN TO FIRST WARD POLLING PLACE

The election board at a polling place at 524 E. College-ave "warned up" to their work early Tuesday—but natural phenomena rather than an excess of public spirit was reported as the cause.

However, things got so hot for the workers that ultimately the fire department had to be called.

A fire from around the pipe outlet of an overheated wood stove did slight damage to the building which belonged to the Peter Traas Grocery Co.

DEATHS

JAMES M. WALSH
Funeral services for James M.
Walsh, 50, who died Sunday in Milwaukee, will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Mary church. The body is at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Foote, 323 E.
Washington-st., Mr. Walsh's widow.
Mrs. Kittie Walsh, daughter of Mrs. J. D. Frawley, 123 S.
Appleton-st.

Mr. Walsh underwent a serious operation ten days ago and, although constantly attended by physicians and surgeons, steadily sank. He resided with his family at 814 Milwaukee-st.
He was well known in literary circles as well as a manufacturer, being especially interested in history. He was also a horticulturist.

Following his graduation from Oshkosh Normal school, Mr. Walsh went to Washington, D. C., and earned on research work with the aim of writing history. He returned to his father's farm at Stockbridge, and while walking in a field, picked up a piece of harness. The leather seemed to be in good condition, and he tried to put the point of his knife under a stitch, thinking the thread would break. The pressure against the thread broke the blade, and from this the Walsh harness, without buckles, was developed.

The Walsh harness revolutionized the industry.

Mr. Walsh came to Milwaukee and his first shop was at Fourth and Harmon-sts., in a room in the rear of a store. Patents were granted and the first year he put his product on the market. Mr. Walsh made thirty-five sets of harness, doing most of the saddlery work. E. J. Walsh, company does a business of over $2,000-000 a year.

About seven years ago a factory was built at 137 Keefe-ave. The company has a plant at Toronto, Canada which handles the business in the United States and the United States, as well as in Canada.

Mr. Walsh was a capable organizer.
He financed and developed his company practically alone.

Carrying on his business through direct selling, the Walsh company is one of the largest patrons of the postal service in America.

Mr. Walsh was a member of the Wisconsin club, the Knights of Columbus and the National Club of Canada.
He was born in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., fifty years ago, of Irish parents. When a small child his parents moved to a bers will be guests at the Y. M. C. A. club at its regular meeting. Routine business will occupy the Triangle session.

The Hi-Y club will hold its regular meeting Tuesday evening instead of Wednesday, because of the foreign war banquet at which Richard Wil-lamson, national secretary of the Mexican Y. M. C. A. will speak, on the evening. Plans for attendance dent the next highest secretary and the third highest, vice president of the club. Lionel Krueger, the leading "member getter" declined the presidency and the next three highest members took the office.

RAPID READING IS ESSENTIAL, ROHAN TELLS P-T CLUB

First Ward Parents and Teachers Attend Interesting Program

Reading and the aim of the schools in its teaching was the topic of the speech given by Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, at the meeting of the First Ward Parent-Teachers association at the school Monday evening. About 130 members of the organization were present.

The purpose of reading is to get the thought of the printed matter, and the duty of the school is to teach what habits may be formed to facilitate that purpose, the speaker said. Three physical habits are involved in proper reading, he continued, namely, regular rhythmic eye movement, few fixations or pauses, and an increase of the eye span.

Each of these habits co-ordinates with the others, and each works to the ultimate end of reading with greater speed and with greater understanding with the least possible physical effort. Exercise in the use of the eyes to aid in the forming of these habits, Mr. Rohan said, and will work eventually to eliminate the mechanical part of reading from the child's mind and allow for emphasis on the thought content only.

ORAL READING SLAY
When the child enters the first grade his rate of speaking is greater than his rate of reading, that is, he may say more words in a minute than he may read, the superintendent said. But at a time usually in the third grade, the rates of both vocabularies are approximately equal, and from then on the reading will increase more rapidly than the speaking. Therefore, if oral reading is emphasized, the child is being held back from the possibilities of silent reading, Mr. Rohan maintained.

The causes of many failures in school, he believed, were due to silent reading for the student who reads and understands one page while others do five pages is seriously handicapped.

The Psychology of Sight Reading in Music was demonstrated by Dr. Earl L. Baker with a group of third grade pupils in the afternoon.

The principles underlying the teaching of music are the same as for other subjects, the director said, and thus music instruction will be an asset to study in academic classes. A model lesson in school music was demonstrated.

Miss Mary Orblison, city school nurse, was scheduled to talk on Children's Health, but the length of the program prevented its completion and the address was postponed to the December meeting of the association. J. F. Frank, president, was in charge of the meeting.

An informal social hour followed the program. Mrs. Margaret DeLoach and Mrs. C. O. Goehnauer were in charge of the refreshments.

MISS BARCLAY STARTS AS NURSE IN SCHOOLS
Miss Jane Barclay took up her duties as assistant school nurse Tuesday morning. The educational committee of the board of education was appointed at the October meeting of the board to obtain an assistant for Miss Mary Orblison, city school nurse, and the appointment of Miss Barclay will be

NOTED ARTIST IN SYMPHONY BAND CONCERT

Jaroslav Cimera, said to be the world's greatest trombone player, will be among the artists featured at the concert to be played by the Chicago Symphony band in Fischer's Appleton theatre on Thursday, Nov. 4, matinee and night.

The trombone is claimed to be the King of wind instruments. It is to the brass family what the cello is to the string family. It is called a perfect instrument, because it is possible to make any measurement of tone on it that can be made with any of the unfretted strings, such as the violin, viola, cello, etc., as well as the human voice. Fretted instruments, pianos, xylophones and all keyed instruments are classed as non-perfect, or set instruments, because you can only make the half tones and nothing between.

This is also why the trombone is the hardest of all wind instruments to master, and yet, looks the easiest, owing to its simplicity of construction.

Cimera has been featured by Sousa, Innes, Kyril and most of the leading bands of the country, and his solos over station KTW are heard from coast to coast.

BEGIN REHEARSALS FOR ELKS MINSTREL

Rehearsals for The Jollies of 1926, the minstrel show and musical comedy to be produced by the Elk club, Nov. 15 and 16 at Fischer's Appleton theatre will start at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening at the clubhouse. Don Sweet of the Joe Dren Production company of Chicago, will have charge of the presentation. The club sponsored a similar show in 1925 with the Dren company directing.

Practically all of last year's cast and some new talent will appear in the 1926 production. High school boys and girls and townspeople as well as members of the Elk club will be included.

David Smith is general chairman of the show committee, and members of the cast committee are R. M. Connelly, F. N. Belanger and Edward F. Mumm.

The work in the schools will be divided between the nurse enabling more adequate attention to the children than has been possible with but one nurse for all of the public and parochial schools.

Sour Stomach
"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda
Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty-cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Old-Timer Recalls Badger Win Over Gophers In 1894

Madison (AP)—Thousands of people who witnessed the 35th annual game between Wisconsin and Minnesota Saturday sat in concrete stands, heard a huge band, saw the famous Minnesota shift, and watched passes go sailing toward the waiting receiver.

Back in 1894, when boys wore derby hats and took their girls for buggy rides, the Badger-Gopher tussle had a much different appearance. The game was played on the lower campus before a crowd of 6,000 of which about a sixth were seated in temporary bleachers. Tickets cost twenty-five cents then. There were many notable spectators: the governor, Senator Vilas, the Supreme Court justices, and many other state dignitaries. Nearly a thousand of the crowd were women, and three hundred men had come down as Minnesota rooters.

Minnesota had entered the game picked as a decided winner, in fact, the Chicago Record had gone as far as to have pictures of several outstanding Gopher players set up to be printed as members of another championship team from Minneapolis. Up to that date, Minnesota had not lost a game since the sport had been established there four years before. Betting odds were great in Madison on that certain November 17th.

Wisconsin was considerably out-weighted by the northern. Dr. Walter Sheldon, now a Madison physician, who played left end at that time weighed about a hundred and forty pounds, and not one of the Wisconsin team could match Minnesota in poundage. There were no substitutions during the game, according to Dr. Sheldon.

PLYMOUTH CLUB STUDIES BIBLE

The first meeting of the Plymouth club of First Congregational church was held Monday evening in the pastor's study. The club, which is composed of young married couples of the church, started its study course on Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's "Modern Use of the Bible," with Dr. H. E. Peabody as leader. Fourteen members were present.

The next meeting on Monday evening will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Madsen, 203 W. Hancock-st.

PRESENTS READINGS AT CHAPEL SERVICE

Miss Gertrude E. Johnson, associate professor of speech at the University of Wisconsin, gave readings of Robert Frost's "Birches" and other selections at the chapel services at Lawrence college Monday morning. Miss Johnson came to Appleton to install the Lawrence chapter of National Collegiate Players, an honorary dramatic fraternity, on Saturday. An interpretative reading of "The White Headed Boy" by Robinson will be given by the speaker at the conservatory at 8 o'clock Monday evening. The program will be given under auspices of the national association.

don, although the halves were forty five minutes long, and the men wore no head-gears, and practically no padding.

There was no scoring in the first half, the teams battling back and forth without scoring a point. In the second half, however, "Ikey" Karet cut himself a big niche in the Badger hall of fame by running forty yards for a touchdown. In those days a touchdown was worth five points, but the try for point afterwards was the same as today. Lyman kicked the ball over Wisconsin's favor. The Badgers then proceeded to hold Minnesota scoreless for the rest of the game.

There was great celebration in Madison, the crowd swarmed on the field and carried the players off triumphantly. At 7 o'clock there was a huge bonfire on the lower campus and from there a crowd of five hundred students headed by the band marched to President Adam's home and demanded a speech. Then they paraded down town.

Minnesota had entered the game picked as a decided winner, in fact, the Chicago Record had gone as far as to have pictures of several outstanding Gopher players set up to be printed as members of another championship team from Minneapolis. Up to that date, Minnesota had not lost a game since the sport had been established there four years before. Betting odds were great in Madison on that certain November 17th.

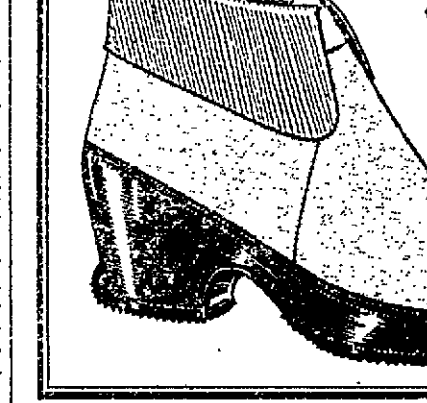

Wisconsin was considerably out-weighted by the northern. Dr. Walter Sheldon, now a Madison physician, who played left end at that time weighed about a hundred and forty pounds, and not one of the Wisconsin team could match Minnesota in poundage. There were no substitutions during the game, according to Dr. Sheldon.

AUXILIARY OF LEGION SEATS ITS OFFICERS

Officers for the ensuing year will be installed after a 1 o'clock luncheon Thursday at the armory, when Mrs. Renard of Green Bay, president of the Ninth district American Legion auxiliary, will be a guest of the local auxiliary and will have charge of the installation.

Following the luncheon and business meeting, a musical program will be given. Mrs. W. H. Dean will sing three selections, "Mifanwy," by Dorothy Foster, "I Heard a Thrush at Eve," by Cadman and "The Hour of Memory," by Anton Dvorak. All members of the auxiliary are expected to attend the luncheon and meeting, it was announced, and are to bring their own dishes and one hot dish. Coffee and rolls will be furnished by the club.

It's here—It's new—and it's a SIMPLEX

THE SIMPLEX is here in its new form—attractive—near in appearance, small and portable as a sewing machine—yet efficient to do your complete ironing quicker and better than ever before—that's the new SUPER SIMPLEX.

The marvelous new mechanism of the SUPER SIMPLEX, almost human in its response and accuracy, makes ironing a short hour of effortless pastime. A small electric motor does all the work while all you do is sit comfortably guiding the pieces through—over right or left end or both, for the SUPER SIMPLEX is open at each end. The slightest pressure of your arm on the feed table automatically controls the starting and stopping operations. Whether you live in a tiny apartment or a spacious house you will appreciate the SUPER SIMPLEX.

You deserve the help of this new labor saver. Decide now to have the fun of doing next week's ironing this easy modern way—it's a cheaper way too and so easy to own by our easy payment plan. The small down payment places this new help-mate in your home and from then on it pays its own way.

By all means see how this new appliance banishes forever the drudgery of hand ironing—let us bring one to your home where you can test its efficiency with your own clothes, or, if you prefer, call at our display room.
